Expect Crest Of Axis Power To Be Reached By Fall Of This Year

Interpretation By

Kirke L. Simpson

(Wide World War Analyst)

The second World war, more terrible and far-spreading than its 1914-18 prototype, will be three years old in another two weeks. Yet there is good warrant for the assertion of high placed British spokesmen that it is only now verging toward its crisis.

From two British sources a prediction has come within the week that by November 1 of this year the flood crest of Axis attacking power will have been reached. Speaking in London, Oliver Lyttleton, British minister of production, admitted a "somber" outlook, and said England would face the gravest hours of her history within the "next eighty days."

Captain Bernard Newman of the British ministry of information was even more specific. Speaking in Canada he said:

"If by November 1st we are still fighting hard, if by November 1st we still hold Egypt, I think we will have won the war."

Here is the same thought, the same critical date setting, but differently expressed. What can be traced in both statements is the belief that Hitler and his Axis accomplices must reach a decisive victory before winter sets in again in Russia, or not at all. And grave as are the war reports from the Caucasus, there seems yet no possibility that Russia can be crushed or forced to her knees in that time.

On the contrary, even by German victory claims, Hitler's armies are now on the defensive from Leningrad to southwest of Moscow, from the Baltic to the upper reaches of the Don. Russian armies are being battered in the central Caucasus, but the ramparts of the towering Caucasus range to the south still guard the Baku oil fields. That difficult terrain, well suited to defense against Nazi blitzkrieg methods, is offered by Berlin as an advance explanation for an

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sunday, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Japanese jungle fighters were still trying to break through the mountain defenses to Port Moresby, New Guinea, today as the battle in the Solomon islands went into its 10th day with the United States marines believed to have captured important coastal bases.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sunday, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Japanese have reinforced their positions "somewhat" in the interior of New Guinea in the Kokoda sector, an Allied spokesman said today following issuance of a communique stating simply that enemy pressure was continuing there.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Fighting leathernecks of the United States marines were believed tonight to have captured important coastal bases in the Solomon islands in triumphant conclusion of the first phase of that great battle still raging in the southwest Pacific.

The failure of Japanese quarters to make any but a negative reference to their land forces, coupled with a Washington announcement that the marines are consolidating shore positions in the Tulagi area, led qualified observers here to the belief that the Nipponese had been dislodged from the bases.

The Japanese controlled radio stations failed to refer to ground forces on the southeastern Solomon islands

More Air Force Troops Arrive In Monroe

World Staff Photo

Hundreds of officers, cadets and a few civilian personnel arrived here late yesterday afternoon as the pre-flight school completed its movement to the local army air forces navigation school. They came from Maxwell Field, Ala., on an 18-car special train. The soldiers are shown as they unloaded after the train was shunted onto the spur track at the Monroe field.

DOLLAR DAY IS SLATED MONDAY

Twin City Merchants Will Offer Unusual Bargains To Public

Monroe and West Monroe will be ready to entertain the largest throng of shoppers Monday in her history, according to David C. Silverstein, chairman of the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce. Weeks ago, this group decided that the final dollar day of the summer should be held on Monday, Aug. 17 and to this end they have been striving to assemble the largest collection of bargains that ever were placed on merchandising shelves in the Twin Cities, it was said.

The committee named to plan tomorrow's event includes H. J. Barham, chairman; G. L. Holloway, M. G. Moore, D. L. Davidson and Lester Scharff.

Merchants realize that with defense workers and officers and men at the A. A. F. navigation school, there will be more potential shoppers than ever before here.

To this end many articles have been marked down to the very lowest limit. Many $2 and $3 articles and some that ordinarily sell for far more, will be put on sale for a dollar, Mr. Silverstein said. Merchants assert that at a

Special Train Brings Officers, Cadets And Enlisted Men

The transfer of the Pre-Flight School for Navigators from Maxwell Field, Ala., to Monroe's Army Air Forces Navigation school was accomplished Saturday with the arrival at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of a special train bearing hundreds of officers, cadets, enlisted men, and civilian instructors.

It was the second time in five days that the strength of the navigation school's garrison had been increased many times over.

The Pre-Flight School for Navigators now becomes a part of the Army Air Forces Navigation school, of which Colonel Norris B. Harbold is commanding officer.

The troop train which ended its run on a railway spur within the gates of the navigation school yesterday brought all but a few of the pre-flight school's personnel. Those few had preceded it.

Among the earlier arrivals was Lieutenant Colonel Thomas V. Webb, commanding officer of the pre-flight school, who drove here Friday. Others already here included an advance party of seven officers and 14 non-commissioned officers holding key administrative positions in the pre-flight school. The Herculean job of preparing the way fell to this party, and was accomplished during the past week by incessant work.

The cadets who arrived yesterday were thoroughly weary and hungry. This did not suffice to stifle their

HOUSING PROBLEM GROWING SERIOUS

Kilpatrick Urges Listing Of All Available Facilities Here

A plea that every available house, apartment, and room in the Twin Cities be made available for occupancy by families of officers and others connected with the navigation school here was voiced yesterday by A. K. Kilpatrick, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Kilpatrick said the housing shortage here has reached serious proportions and urged the cooperation of every citizen of Monroe and West Monroe. At the same time, he urged that prices be kept at a reasonable level.

"For the past several weeks a large number of new people have been coming into Monroe, most of whom are officers and others connected with the new Monroe airport. Many of these men have families who are very anxious to secure living quarters in Monroe and West Monroe. Most everyone knows and realizes the serious shortage of apartments and houses in the Twin Cities. It is really a serious problem and one that every citizen should do his very best to help solve.

"Every effort has been made by the Chamber of Commerce to cope with this very critical and serious

GERMANS DROP CLAIM CARRIER WASP DAMAGED

ENGLAND FAILS TO SUPPLY ANY ADDITIONAL DETAILS

Nazis Acknowledge Remaining Vessels Of Convoy Reach Malta

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The German high command today withdrew its claim that the United States aircraft carrier Wasp had been damaged in the great western Mediterranean convoy battle but officially reported that the running fight was over with six British men o' war and 15 merchant ships or tankers sunk.

Backing down from their official report of yesterday that the Wasp was hit by six bombs and set on fire, the Germans said it was a British aircraft carrier of the Illustrious type that was damaged.

The Axis, however, was unable to get together on its broadcast claims, for the Italians told the world that the battle was continuing; that a destroyer and two cruisers had been damaged yesterday by torpedoes and bombs and that torpedo planes had hit the prow of a battleship.

Unofficial Italian reports further said that larger units of the Italian surface fleet had no opportunity to give battle as the battleships escorting the convoy abandoned it and withdrew to Gibraltar shortly after the air and submarine attacks were opened.

The British already have spiked that fantasy with an official admiralty report that enemy cruisers which sought to intercept the convoy turned tail and fled when attacked by British aircraft.

The British admiralty, meanwhile, added nothing to its previous announcement that the aircraft carrier Eagle and the cruiser Manchester were sunk and that considerable supplies and fighter planes were rammed through the Axis gantlet to reinforce Malta.

The Italian press boasted that the Manchester was sunk by a new-type Italian torpedo boat which saw its first action in the convoy battle.

Up to today's revised reports, the Axis had claimed that 21 cargo ships were sunk as well as two destroyers and three cruisers and the Eagle.

Thus the German clean-up report today represented a considerable scaling down of Axis claims. The Germans now claim:

Fifteen vessels totaling 180,000 tons out of a convoy of 21, including all tankers in the group, were sunk.

The aircraft carrier Eagle, the cruiser Manchester and three destroyers were sunk.

"One aircraft carrier of the Illustrious type, 23,000 tons, which was set

Huge Fires Set In Foe's Main Camp, Resistance Is Slight

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Flaming guns of the United States warships and bombs of naval planes severely damaged a destroyer and two cargo vessels and sent a third cargo ship to the bottom in Kiska harbor in raids August 8 and 9 the navy disclosed today.

More than 3,000 shells were hurled from the big guns of warships of a task force of the Pacific fleet which hit hard at the enemy occupied island off Alaska.

Shells striking the enemy's main camp set huge fires which still were burning when reconnaissance planes flew over the harbor a day later.

A short distance to the south a secondary camp also was hit hard by the heavy bombardment, and anti-aircraft and shore batteries throughout the island were silenced.

Only resistance offered by the enemy was a weak seaplane attack and desultory firing by shore batteries before they were put out of action by American big guns.

When the United States forces hit they found a fleet of enemy vessels—including submarines—in the Kiska harbor. Estimates were made that the fleet included ten cargo or transport vessels, four submarines and a destroyer.

At the close of the surprise attack on August 8, the destroyer was left standing and burning just outside the harbor.

Patrol planes the following day added damage to two cargo vessels and reported sighting a third sunk near

LAUNCH ATTACKS WITH NO REGARD FOR OWN LOSSES

German Bodies Are Declared Littering Ground Along Railroad

LITTLE CHANGE REPORTED IN FIGHTING IN CAUCASUS

Speed Of Assault Toward Maikop And Cherkessk Somewhat Slowed

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, Aug. 16 (Sunday)—(AP)—Apparently launching a full offensive against Stalingrad after securing strongholds in the north Caucasus, the Germans hurled masses of infantrymen, tanks and planes today against Russian positions on the Kletskaya and Kotelnikovski fronts before the important Volga city.

Russian reports early today said the Germans had opened up a series of attacks with no regard for losses, with German bodies littering the ground along a railroad east of Kotelnikovski, where the Germans struck after regrouping their forces.

The Germans have been stalled on the Kletskaya and Kotelnikovski fronts for weeks while they won positions in the Don bend and beat their way deep into the Caucasus. Now they appear to be putting on the pressure again, with most of the north Caucasus in their hands.

Coincident with the threat to Stalingrad was a drive aimed at Astrakhan from the Kotelnikovski area.

The Russian midnight communique said that the Germans lost heavily in attempts to recapture lost positions northeast of Kotelnikovski, while the Moscow radio broadcast that the regrouped Nazis fighting east of the city were trying to drive to the northeast toward Stalingrad.

Kotelnikovski is [illegible] miles southwest of Stalingrad.

On the northern arm of this huge pincer movement against the city named for Joseph Stalin, the Germans apparently were trying to develop and enlarge their break through to the Don river southeast of Kletskaya, which is 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

"Southeast of Kletskaya the Germans launched several fierce attacks and sustained heavy losses," the midnight communique reported.

(The Russian accounts did not make clear how the battles in the two criti-

Convention Wednesday Will Provide Test Of Roosevelt's Prestige

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—New York state, a reservoir of presidents, today eagerly eyed next Wednesday's Democratic convention for a major test of Franklin D. Roosevelt's political prestige at home.

Candidates in the battle raging for the gubernatorial nomination were tall James M. Mead, United States senator from Buffalo, and genial John J. Bennett, Jr., state attorney general from Brooklyn.

To political observers generally Mead and Bennett were only the front men with the underlying contest one between the New Deal forces of President Roosevelt and James A. Farley, state Democratic chairman and once a close Roosevelt aide.

Bennett, whose campaign has been carefully guided by the Veteran Farley, was in the race first and piled up a stack of delegate pledges. Coming

INCREASE IN BOND PURCHASES URGED

Parish Behind In Sales As Effort To Meet Quota Is Stimulated

An intensive campaign to spur the lagging sale of United States war bonds and stamps in Monroe and West Monroe will be inaugurated immediately, it was announced yesterday by the Ouachita Parish War Bond and Stamp committee.

"Ouachita parish's quota for August is $251,400," a member of the committee said, "and so far we are far from maintaining the ratio of sales that will be necessary if we meet this quota. We haven't fallen down during a single month so far—our record is 100 per cent—and we are sure that the patriotic citizens of Monroe, West Monroe and throughout the parish will want to continue this record. But it's time to get busy and we urge the co-operation of every person, whether he buys a stamp or a large bond."

Merchants are urged to have stamps available at their stores at all times. It was pointed out that in one instance a prospective purchaser visited six stores recently and found that not one had stamps to sell. In connection with the merchants' participation in the campaign, a meeting of all local merchants will be held in the ballroom of the Virginia hotel Tuesday at 3 p. m., it was announced Saturday.

Arrangements have been made to have applications for purchase of bonds available at all stores each day

BIG ARMY BOMBER STRIKES MOUNTAIN

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A large army bomber, bound from Camp Pope, Georgia, to Camp Edwards, Massachusetts, crashed tonight at Peru, Mass., it was reported at Mitchell Field. It could not be determined immediately how many persons were aboard.

At near-by Pittsfield, Mass., Police Chief John L. Sullivan and State Police Corporal Louis Perachi reported the plane had struck Peru mountain, one of the highest peaks in the Berkshire hills, and that they understood the plane might have been carrying as many as 24 men—19 soldiers and the crew.

State police subsequently reported at least four men in the crash were alive.

It was said at Mitchell Field that the plane probably was one of 11 cargo transport ships which were making the flight together and had stopped here en route.

FIVE PROMINENT DUTCHMEN SHOT

Slain By Germans In Reprisal For Failure To Reveal Train Wreckers

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Five prominent Dutchmen were stood before a stone wall and shot dead today in Nazi reprisal for the failure or refusal of their countrymen to deliver to the occupation forces the saboteurs who wrecked a German troop train August 7, and the lives of many more hostages were declared forfeit.

The executions were reported here by the Netherlands government-in-exile on the basis of announcement by General Friedrich Christiansen of the occupation forces, who said:

"The perpetrators of the high explosive attempt in Rotterdam have been too cowardly to give themselves up."

The Germans previously had said the lives of 1,600 hostages would be forfeit if the saboteurs were not given up.

Those executed were William Ruts, director general of Rotterdam; the Count of Limburg Stirum, of Arnhem; a Mr. Waalde, an attorney of Rotterdam; Christopher Bennekers, former police inspector of Rotterdam, and Alexander Baron Schimmelpenninck van der Roye, former president of the Netherlands Olympic committee.

One hour after the executions, Premier Pieter S. Gerbrandy of the Netherlands government-in-exile, made a

British Ships' Guns Pour Tons Of High Explosive Shells Into Rhodes

Huge Fires Are Left Burning On Eastern Mediterranean Island

By Larry Allen

ABOARD A CRUISER WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, BOMBARDING RHODES, Aug. 13.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The long sleek guns of Britain's Mediterranean warships, spouting sheets of white flame, poured ton after ton of high explosive shells into Mussolini's Dodecanesan stronghold of Rhodes early today.

They left behind on this eastern Mediterranean island huge fires, battered seaplane bases and broken barracks and harbor installations.

The squadron of warships, commanded by Rear-Admiral Philip L. Vian, swept into the mine-laden waters off Rhodes just before 1 a.m. Thursday and plastered the harbor for 12 minutes in one of the most thrilling surprise bombardments I have ever witnessed.

The Rhodes heavy shore batteries and anti-aircraft guns and Italian torpedo boats flung everything at the fleet they could muster. My heart crashed against my ribs as big enemy shells sprayed over this cruiser and near misses made huge geysers while fire gushed from the mouths of the ships guns and projectiles scorched through the air under the starlit skies and exploded with shattering force ashore.

In this most spectacular bombardment of the war since the fleet pumped thousands of armor-piercing shells into Tripoli on April 24, 1941, the Nazis and Fascists in Rhodes sent up thousands of multi-colored "flaming onions" in an effort to trace the attacking force while British and American bombers pounded the airdromes and other targets ashore both before and after the sea shelling.

Rhodes looked like a maze of Christmas tree lights when the fleet sailed up to a broadside position. It looked like a flash from hell when the warships moved safely away.

The aggressive and daring Vian, who tried to whip Italian battleships with 5.25 guns in a Malta convoy operation last March, pushed his squadron through a wide sweep in the eastern Mediterranean.

Where Vian goes action follows. He shoved the muzzles of his big naval guns close to Rhodes and gave the Axis one of the biggest scares of this war.

I paced the quarter deck with the ship's officers and talked with the gun crew in one of the 6-inch turrets and found them eager to start the rain of hot steel on Rhodes.

There's a saying in the British fleet: "If a shell has your name on it you are going to catch it."

So I wrote in pencil "Benito Mussolini" upon one of the shells and asked the gunner to deliver it that night. He did.

Vessels Plaster Harbor 12 Minutes In Surprise Bombardment

As the fleet splashed steadily closer to Rhodes two other correspondents and I sat in the paymaster commander's cabin under the 4-inch gun turret and spent the time until zero hour swatting brown cockroaches the size of small General Grant tanks.

As midnight approached the leaden cloud banks seemed to merge into grotesque humps on the horizon. A marine bugler sounded "all hands to action stations."

On the bridge the captain and gunnery officer checked last-minute preparations for the big shooting. The guns were tested for readiness. Offi-

JONES DETERMINED TO CALL SESSION

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Amid varying plans as to what steps should be taken to stave off scheduled closing down on September 1 of the great New Orleans Charity hospital only one factor seemed certain in the capital today.

This was that Governor Sam Jones appeared to have the legislature meet in special session next week to have another opportunity to raise additional state taxes which would keep the hospital open and supply other revenue needs.

Advisors of Governor Jones continued over the week-end considering various tax plans as possibilities to be presented to the legislature when Jones calls the solons back into session, hardly more than a month after a regular 60-day biennial meeting in which a sales tax proposal was voted down.

Other tax plans, including higher income and severance levies as well as wholesale and retail sales, transactions and payroll taxes, reportedly were being talked, though there was no indication that any appreciable number of legislators were in agreement on any specific plan to raise the required new funds.

MAN, WOMAN SHOT, TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A man and a woman, each shot twice, were taken to Charity hospital in critical condition today after they had appeared at the tenth precinct police station in an automobile and called to officers to "call an ambulance."

Detective Lieutenant Joseph Schwehm identified the couple as Charles Fruge, 39, and Miss Josephine Boscareno, 28. Fruge was booked with shooting to kill.

Schwehm said Miss Boscareno declared they had been sweethearts but had quarreled and that Fruge shot her and then turned the gun on himself when she refused a reconciliation.

After the shooting, Schwehm said she told him, Fruge drove about two miles in an efofrt to get to a hospital. Unable to drive farther, he turned into the police station.

R. A. F. FLYING WITH AMERICANS

British And United States Airmen Wingmates Over Egyptian Desert

CAIRO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—American fighter pilots are flying as wingmates of the R. A. F. in a new outburst of aerial activity over the desert and overseas supply lines, it was disclosed today along with the conservative British report that the R. A. F. had downed at least 10 of the Axis planes attacking the Malta convoy during the week.

In operations other than the convoy battle, long-range R. A. F. fighter planes sent two big Junkers-52 transport planes flaming into the sea and fighters escorting ground-strafing bombers downed a Messerschmitt 109.

The transports loaded with Axis specialists speeding to the African front were of the type caught low over the Mediterranean on previous R. A. F. forays over the contested Axis sea-air lanes.

There was no announcement to indicate the successes of the fledgling United States pursuit pilots on their first combat flights in the Middle East.

The American fighters got into the battle for the Middle East a month after the first announcement from the headquarters of Major General Lewis H. Brereton that United States bombers had been carrying out missions with the R. A. F. for some time prior to that.

The United States bomber exploits have included attacks on the Axis parachutist-captured base of Crete and many other objectives over the stalemated desert front and the sea lanes.

The British were cautious in their first announcement of enemy planes downed in the Mediterranean August 13-14 during the attack on a British convoy that punched supplies and fighter plane replacements to Malta. The British announced the loss of the British aircraft carrier Eagle and the cruiser Manchester from the convoy.

They said the total of 10 enemy planes downed undoubtedly would be increased by further reports.

All these were victims of R. A. F. fighters presumably launched from the decks of carriers guarding the convoy or possibly from Malta's battered airdromes.

British plane losses in the convoy battle were placed at four, with the pilot of one reported safe.

British light bombers were reported to have attacked air bases and enemy positions in the Fuka-E Daba area behind the front.

PEREZ STATES NEW CERTIFICATION SENT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—District Attorney Leander H. Perez, chairman of the Democratic committee of the 25th judicial district, said today he had sent a new certification to Secretary of State James A. Gremillion correcting one he sent Friday certifying himself and J. Claude Meraux as candidates for the judgeship and leaving out the name of Richard A. Dowling.

The previous certification was delivered to Mr. Gremillion at Baton Rouge Friday afternoon at about the same time the 25th district committee was meeting at Pointe a la Hache and discussing the charges made by both Mr. Perez and Dowling that the other was not a bonafide resident of the district and was not eligible, therefore, to be a candidate for the judgeship.

Questioned today, Perez said, "That's all been straightened out. I sent a new certification today, dated August 14, certifying Mr. Dowling."

The district includes St. Bernard and Plaquemines parishes.

REPORTERS GET BREAKS IN NEWS

Frequently Stumble On Big Stories When Least Expected

By Gladwin Hill

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(Wide World)—A reporter in Akron, Ohio, was hungry for pork chops, and that was how the story of the nation-wide meat shortage broke.

Karl Grismer of the Akron Beacon Journal sent his daughter to the butcher's to get the pork chops. The butcher was fresh out of pork chops. In fact, he was short of all meats. Phone calls around Akron revealed that other butchers were in the same plight.

The reporter wrote a story about it. The Associated Press sent the story all over the United States. Immediately a dozen other cities reported they had meat shortages too. And there was your national story.

All because a reporter was hungry for pork chops. . . .

Although most big news stories are broken through plain vigilance and diligence, the annals of journalism are dotted with remarkable instances where reporters stumbled on big breaks through even less likely circumstances than an appetite for pork chops.

A bored Chicago reporter was wandering down the street, for lack of anything better to do, when his eyes fell on the unlikely scene of people climbing out of a smoking manhole—and he had the story of the great Iroquois theater fire.

The A.P.'s Tom Yarborough, en route to the Southern Pacific, just happened to hit Honolulu at the same time the Japs did. . . .

Back in 1920, George Weston, A.P. ship news reporter in New York, taking a lunch-hour stroll along Wall street, was passing the House of Morgan when a crank drove up with a horse and wagon and tossed the famous bomb—and Weston had first crack at one of the biggest stories in years.

"Mamzelle Champagne". . . an unpromising name for a show. But A.P. Day Manager Owen Connor decided to see it at the Madison Square Garden theater the night of June 25, 1906. While he was sitting there, a shot rang out—the shot with which Harry Thaw shot Stanford White in their battle over the affections of Evelyn Nesbit. And Connor had a beat.

The Thaw case was just one news windfall after another to a string of lucky A.P. men. When Thaw escaped from the Manhattan insane asylum in New York on August 19, 1912 and headed for the Canadian border, he happened to land on the same Maine Central train with a deputy sheriff from Colebrook, N. H.

Through an inadvertent remark, he disclosed his identity to the officer. The sheriff was intrigued, but had no idea that Thaw was a wanted man, and, when he reached his destination, —bade him a polite goodbye!

But by a streak of luck one of the first people the sheriff bumped into when he got off the train was Walter Drew, A.P. correspondent at Colebrook, who hadn't had occasion to send in a story in two years.

But he jumped like an old fire horse when the sheriff told him whom he had met. Together they hired a car and started in blind pursuit, soon picking up Thaw's trail where he had left the train and hired a hack. They caught up with Thaw a few hours later at Ste. Hermenegilde, Quebec, and Drew quickly made up for his two newsless years.

As if that weren't enough, the comedy of errors continued. And so did reporters' luck.

A month later, the Canadian government deported Thaw, but neglected to tell New York authorities where and when they were doing it.

Thaw was dumped across the border and left on a road in northern Vermont, alone and dazed. The first person to drive down the road as Thaw stood there was Frank Elser, A.P. New York day city editor who had been sent to Canada to cover the intervening developments.

He picked Thaw up and drove him over the hills and dales of Vermont and New Hampshire for hours, pumping him and stopping off frequently to file stories, the final one being Thaw's rearrest at Colebrook, N. H.

It was back around the same time that Ed Moss, now secretary of the United States Lawn Tennis association, and then a sports writer on the New York Sun, stumbled across a national story by about the simplest means conceivable.

He read it in a newspaper.

Moss was perusing a paper from New England one night, and noticed a small item that Jim Thorpe, the Indian athlete and Olympic star, had been re-signed by a bush-league ball team in New England. Moss blinked three times. Although New England had taken Thorpe's presence casually, this was the first inkling the nation at large had that the Indian had been engaging in professional athletics, and it precipitated the cause celebre that ended in Thorpe having to return a lot of his Olympic medals.

One of the prize news surprises of all time occurred on the sixth of May 1937, when a little group of reporters and photographers went out to Lakehust, N. J., to cover the routine arrival of the dirigible Hindenburg.

The story literally blew up in their faces when the zeppelin exploded just short of the mooring mast, from what cause no one knows yet.

The A.P. had set up a telegraph circuit to the airport to facilitate sending passengers' names and comments on the trip to its Newark office, and it was this wire that enabled Reporter Bob Okin—whose work that night started him on a career as a foreign correspondent—to dispatch out over the country the first flash and running account of the disaster right from the scene, while A.P. Photographer Murray Becker leveled his camera and shot historic pictures of the explosion.

One of the first national aviation stories fell almost into an A.P. reporter's lap, and he set a new speed record covering it. He had the story out before the event had completely happened.

NO-BITE RECORD HURT

WANAQUE, N. J., Aug. 15.—(AP)—This borough where packs of wild dogs used to roam, had a record of no dog bites this year. That is, until—a milkman hurried into a yard. A waiting dog took a nip as he went by. Damage was mainly to the borough's no-bite record.

OTHERS CAN'T KEEP SECRETS

HENDRICKS FIELD, Fla., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Colonel Carl B. McDaniel, addressing student officers, offered them this sage observation on the business of keeping war secrets: "I can keep secrets. It's the people I tell them to who can't."

LEW AYRES ENDS BASIC TRAINING

Commanding General Bestows Praise On 'Excellent Soldier'

ABILENE, Texas, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Private Lew Ayres has completed his basic army training at Camp Barkeley's medical replacement training center with the praise "excellent soldier" bestowed by his commanding general.

The erstwhile Dr. Kildare of the movies reported here in May after leaving a conscientious objectors' camp to enter noncombatant service.

Six pounds heavier despite his vegetarian diet and hard work under a blazing sun, Ayres awaits permanent assignment in the nation's armed forces with this blessing from Brigadier General Roy C. Heflebower, commander of the medical center:

"Accordin to all reports reaching my office he has been an excellent soldier and I am confident he will render valuable service before his army career ends."

An officer of lesser rank who had Ayres in his command added: "I wish I had a whole battalion of men just like him."

Ayres said:

"I've enjoyed my training and I'm eager to become more useful in my field of service."

Not knowing what or where his next assignment will be, Ayres said he would welcome an opportunity to help alleviate the suffering of men wounded in battle.

When Private Ayres came to Camp Barkeley the spotlight that had dogged him was turned off.

Interviews and photographs were banned. He was buried in the routine of basic army training. He was spared no menial tasks and he earned his present status as a hospital ward instructor.

In between times, he appeared anonymously on camp radio programs and now he is rehearsing his part in an army emergency relief show that will be given soon in an Abilene theater.

'TIME IS SHORT' SAYS EISENHOWER

Asserts U. S. Soldier Must Be Trained For 'Rigorous Operations'

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Significantly speaking at a time when United States, Russian and British military leaders are continuously discussing diversionary actions on a new European front, United States Lieutenant-General Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today that "the time is short" and United States soldiers must be trained to stand the most "rigorous operations."

His words at a press conference were regarded by many as a hint of the urgency with which the program to beat the Axis is being organized.

"Truining in all its phases must be intensive," said the commander of all United States army forces in the European theater.

"This is true first because the time is short, second, because the problems we have demand the ultimate in trained personnel, and, third, because our men must be toughened and hardened physically to stand the most rigorous operations."

He declared it was his conviction that "we must form here the best army the United States has ever put into the field if we are to perform our future tasks successfully."

The general's words were taken as a reflection of the views of both the British and American governments that a second front in Europe is needed at the earliest possible moment; and that such a front can be created and successfully advanced only at the cost of great preparation and great casualties.

United States troops for some time past have been pouring into Britain at an increasing rate and their training is progressing rapidly with battle-hardened British veterans among the instructors.

British and American experts, while realizing that a full scale second front is impossible without adequate preparations, feel that more positive action to aid Russia and hit the Axis will not be long delayed. They think the formula has been decided or soon will be.

Many believe that at the present stage the main brunt still will have to be borne by British and Canadian troops with Americans playing a minor role until they reach a training and organizational peak—but at the rate things are moving they think that won't be long.

Because of their use both for food and oil, peanuts are being produced at a 155 per cent increase over 1941.

WOMEN LEARN TO PACK PARACHUTES

Class Of Four Graduates Is Joined By Three Others Taking Course

COLUMBUS, Miss., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The army's twin-engine flying school here has graduated what it believes is the nation's first class of feminine parachute-packers.

The four graduates — two of them wives of men in the service—have already been joined by three other women taking the course.

"The class is the first in the southeast to be graduated, and so far as we know the first in the nation," said Sergeant Harry N. Murphy, non-commissioned officer in charge of the public relations office.

The women are taught by Master Sergeant John Scherer, whose wife is one of the graduates. They are "easily as skillful with their hands as their male predecessors," the school reported, but in the interest of greater safety two packers work on each 'chute instead of packing individually as the men did.

They hold civilian status, but have designed and made for themselves uniform coveralls of blue corded spun rayon, and eventually will wear the insignia of sub-depot employes, the public relations office said.

In addition to Mrs. Scherer, the first graduates numbered Mrs. Velma Bell of Hamilton, Miss., wife of a master sergeant; Mrs. Bertice James, wife of a Columbus cattle dealer, and Miss Mary McCrary of Columbus. In a second class which has completed six weeks of study are Mrs. Alie Cox, wife of an engineer at a Mississippi ordnance plant, and Mrs. Iva J. Sims, wife of a civilian employe at the school. Just beginning is Mrs. Valda Christy of Aberdeen, Miss., wife of a sergeant now overseas.

And how do the 'chutes packed by dainty feminine hands perform?

"Thus far, none of them has been jumped," the public relations office reports. "No flyer has found it necessary to bail out since they began packing."

INDIA DEADLOCK MAY BREAK SOON

Two Prominent Nationalists May Intervene In Resistance Drive

BOMBAY, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Evidence was developing tonight that the deadlock between the British government and Indian nationalists might soon be broken through the intervention of at least one and possibly another prominent Indian.

As reports circulated that the British might apply severe penalties, including death and collective fines, to halt rioting and destruction by followers of Mohandas K. Gandhi, word came from the city of Trichinopoly that Chakravati Jajogopalahari, one time prominent All-India Congress figure, was going to New Delhi next week probably on political business.

At the same time it was reported from Allahabad that Sir Tej Bahadar Sapru, India's most prominent lawyer and sometime negotiator between the government and Gandhi, also was heading for New Delhi and would visit Lord Linlithgow, the viceroy.

Moreover, the working committee of the Moslem league meets in Bombay tomorrow to formulate a new policy to meet the situation arising from Gandhi's sponsoring of a non-violent independence drive.

There was no intimation that the government had requested either Rajagopalachari or Sapru to confer on the chance of working out a British-Indian agreement that would end the rioting, but observers could not overlook the fact that Rajagopalachari broke with the congress last spring to carry on a one-man campaign to settle Hindu-Moslem communal differences by compromise so that negotiations could be opened with the government.

Nor was it overlooked that Sapru was perhaps the one truly prominent Indian who had the confidence of both Gandhi and his followers and of the viceroy.

WEDDING DELAYED YEAR SOLEMNIZED

Purple Heart Fighter Arrives In Shreveport And Claims Bride

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The wedding which was fated for nearly a year's delay was finally solemnized Friday when Lieutenant Harry Schreiber of Galveston, Tex., arrived here after seeing foreign service on Philippine and Australian soil, to claim Miss Rae Sternberg for his bride.

The lieutenant, who was awarded the Order of the Purple Heart for action in the Philippines, in which he received an arm wound, got into town by plane at 1:30 p.m. Miss Sternberg was waiting, and at 4 p.m. the wedding took place in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sternberg

The young couple were taking no chances that any further delay would separate them, as has been the case since first setting October 19, 1941 as their wedding date. An automobile accident and then army orders which sent the bridegroom to the Philippines just four days before that date frustrated original plans of the young Shreveport woman and her fiance who met last summer in New Orleans.

Lieutenant Schreiber has seen plenty of active service in the past months. He was at Clark Field on December 7. Then in that same month, during the fighting at Legaspi Bay in Luzon, his plane was shot down and he received a wound in the right arm.

"We were attacked by five Zero fighters and our gunners accounted for four in the fight," the navigator explained, adding that the disabled ship made a forced landing after which it was strafed by the remaining Jap Zero fighter until his ammunition gave out.

"About 10 minutes after we landed we were attacked by native Filipinos who thought we were Japs. When they learned we were Americans, they took us on horses to their village for treatment," he said. It took about six weeks for the crew of eight to work back to its secret base. In March, Lieutenant Schreiber was moved to Australia and saw action at Port Darwin and Moresby.

Lieutenant Schreiber, who has about six years' service in the air corps, said that his crew which has been together for the past several months, had accounted for 18 enemy planes.

Last Saturday he called his fiancee from San Francisco. A trip cross-country to Washington kept him from Shreveport a few days, but his present bride knew he'd be here as soon as possible. She had her wedding dress of "Australian" green ready.

INFLATION FEARED

"People can't realize how critical this problem of inflation is," U. S. Goodman, state OPA director, warns. "The amount of goods available to the consumer is gradually declining but the national income is rising, and as these draw further apart, the danger of inflation increases. By the end of 1942, our standard of living faces a return to the worst of the depression years, simply because our production of consumer goods will be so low." Mr. Goodman urges buying of war bonds and stamps, greater taxation, wage stabilization, and more complete OPA control of prices to whip inflation.

AUGUST MAC'S IN NEW RECORD

Lieutenants Are Older, Better Educated; Monroe Man Is Graduate

MEDICAL REPLACEMENT TRAINING CENTER, Camp Barkley, Tex., Aug. 15.—(Special)—In addition to turning out as many trained second lieutenants as its predecessor, the second graduating class here, commissioned August 15 at the new officer candidate school, medical administrative corps, has et about establishing new records.

Compare the statistics!

This class has representatives from 40 different states, plus Canada and the District of Columbia, whereas the July graduates came from 39 states. Along these same lines, there's the geographical representation by states. New York still leads, with 24 members (25 in July's group). The rest of the line-up, however, has changed. Next in order are Pennsylvania, 20; Ohio, 15; California, 14; Illinois, 14; Texas, 13, and Michigan, 11. In July, the ranking next after New York had been California, Texas, Illinois, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Like the July group, the August MAC's had just as varied civilian occupations prior to joining the army. Some of the more unusual jobs were as food importer, acid pumper, escrow officer, botanist, tabulator operator, precision gear inspector, pair heater, sanitary inspector, farmer, and furrier. While the bulk of the group tended toward such careers in civilian life as salesmen, students and teachers, pharmacists and chemists.

The new lieutenants seem to be older as well. The average age of the August class is 26 3 years, as compared with 26 years for the July men.

The August class has had more formal education. Seventy per cent of this class went to college, a five per cent increase over the July group. A total of 129 different colleges and universities number their alumni among the new officers, with representatives from Harvard to Santa Barbara, from Texas Tech to the University of Toronto.

Regardless of former background, their common experience as enlisted men in the army and their weeks and weeks of intensive training in the officers' school together have resulted in a sturdy brand of new officers ready for the tough job ahead.

Anthony Joseph Marsala, 28, son of Mrs. Elvira Marsala, 614 North Fourth street, Monroe, La., completed the intensive training at the medical administrative corps officer candidate school here to win the gold bars of a second lieutenant, army of the United States.

Prior to the training, Lieutenant Marsala was a technical sergeant with the medical detachment of a coast artillery unit.

In civilian life, the lieutenant was assistant manager of a motor vehicle bureau. He attended Neville High school, Monroe, and L. S. U. at Baton Rouge.

Diplomas were presented to the graduates of the second class in the recently organized officers' candidate school by Brigadier General Roy C. Hefiebower, MRTC and school commandant. Major Charles L. Driscoll, executive officer, administered the oath of office. Lieutenant-Colonel George E. Armstrong is assistant commandant of the school. The new officers will go on leave, following which they will be assigned to various posts throughout the country.

SAYS STEPHENS' CHARGE UNTRUE

Wright Asserts Senator Ellender Worked For National Preparedness

HOUMA, La., Aug. 15.—(Special.)—"Ennolls A. Stephens again displays complete ignorance of national affairs when he accuses Senator Ellender, in a statement carried in The New Orleans Times-Picayune of August 15, of voting to prevent the president's fortifying our Pacific islands," said Elward Wright, state campaign manager for Senator Ellender, in a statement issued today at Houma. "And again in Ruston, on August 6," continued Wright, "he either deliberately or through ignorance erred when he said that 18 months before the attack on Pearl Harbor, when President Roosevelt appealed to the congress for additional funds to increase the strength of the army, navy and air forces, Ellender voted against the president's appeal."

"The Congressional Record contains verbatim proceedings of the United States senate. I will invite anyone," continued Wright, "to cite one single instance where Senator Ellender voted against any proposal of President Roosevelt for national preparedness."

Senator Ellender campaigned in 1936 on a platform for national preparedness. He always supported and worked for national preparedness measures. He co-operated with President Roosevelt 100 per cent in the pre-Pearl Harbor preparedness program and in the prosecution of the war since Pearl Harbor.

Manager Wright stated further: "Presumably our opponent, in referring to fortifying our Pacific islands, has in mind the proposal of the navy department several years ago to fortify the island of Guam. Senator Ellender did not oppose the fortification of Guam; on the contrary, he advocated fortifying the island of Guam. The proposal was never voted on in the United States senate. It was debated in the house of representatives and defeated by that body, and did not reach the senate. Senator Ellender and several members of the senate naval affairs committee made strenuous efforts to restore the Guam item when the bill was before the committee."

WATERMELON FEAST PLANNED BY POST

Members of the American Legion L. B. Faulk Post No. 13 will meet Monday night at the memorial home at 8 o'clock, Post Commander Curtis Seamon announced Saturday.

The meeting will be followed by a watermelon supper on the lawn, he said, urging legionnaires to bring their wives to the meeting and supper.

A final report of the convention committee will be presented at the meeting, along with a report on the progress of the photograph record collection campaign. The record drive, begun a few weeks ago, will continue until September 1, according to an official bulletin received by Commander Seamon. He urged that all broken or out-of-date records be turned in to the fire station or to any member of the American Legion.

BEN DOWNING, JR., IN OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Ben Downing, Jr., Louisiana State university student, has been "tapped" for membership by Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary leadership fraternity, according to reports from Baton Rouge.

Young Downing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Downing, Sr., of Monroe, and a well-known young golfer, who was president of his sophomore class and a member of the student senate, is also a member of Alpha Alpha Alpha, pre-legal fraternity, and of Phi Eta Sigma, Mu Sigma Rho, Delta Kappa Epsilon and of Samurai, interfraternity organization.

He is president of the freshman class of the law school and last year represented the college of arts and sciences on the student council.

Blood The Price Of Victory

Admiral King, reporting on the progress of fighting in the Solomon Islands, made a statement which should sink deeply into the consciousness of every American and steel him to a courageous acceptance of the dark days that lie ahead.

The United States, for the first time, has assumed the initiative, and—as Admiral King declares clearly and frankly—offensive warfare makes heavy losses inevitable. They are the price that must be paid for the attainment of objectives.

It is important that the American people keep this grim fact in mind because the time is not distant when their armies will be on the offensive, not only in the Pacific, where the first blow has been struck, but also in Europe, where the outcome of the war must be decided.

There is no longer any doubt as to the opening of a second front. Allied government leaders, together with a small group of high military officials in each country, undoubtedly know the time and the place of the blow and the more important details of the plans. When the opportune hour arrives the attack will be launched.

American troops are not being shipped to Britain just for the ride, or for decorative purposes, or for defensive in event of an invasion of England. They are being transported abroad to take part in the most formidable military enterprise in history, an undertaking which must succeed if final victory is to be won.

One of the tragic realities of war is to be found in the fact that it cannot be won by conserving manpower. The price of victory must be paid in blood—the blood of young men who leave their fathers' homes, their jobs, their associates and happy surroundings for the defense of their country.

Having in mind the sacrifices which these young men must make for the present security of the nation, the preservation of freedom and the happiness of future generations of Americans, it becomes a more pressing obligation of each individual to search his own heart and examine his own work so that the question of whether he is doing all that he can for victory may be answered.

PHYSICIANS IN SERVICE

A number of physicians here and elsewhere have joined the armed forces of the nation, just as have lawyers, pharmacists, merchandising experts and those of other professions who desire to serve for the duration. Enlistment of physicians has been voluntary, just as the others who will serve in varions capacities with the country's troops.

The public apparently has not been thoroughly informed on the status of physicians in the war effort. Many are of the opinion that these professional men are being drafted, but such is not the case. Many persons received an erroneous idea when a committee of doctors was set up in an advisory capacity to work with army and navy officials who needed physicians. This committee was not asked to "draft" doctors but was merely to coordinate the efforts of members of their own group on one hand and service officials on the other to supply the demand for physicians.

Doctors of Monroe and other communities who have and will answer the call to service are doing so as volunteers. They, just as other men and women in all walks of life, are making sacrifices that we all know are necessary to the successful conclusion of the war.

GOING UP

In case anybody still is interested, the cost of local, state and federal government in the fiscal year of 1941 amounted to 24 billion dollars, which was a third more than in 1938.

The Federation of Tax Administrators' analysis of this expenditure shows that while most of the increase can be attributed to the war, by no means all has that convenient alibi. Of nine classifications only two—"protection" (including police, fire, etc.) and "miscellaneous" (including general administration and the judiciary) failed to rise. Health and welfare programs cost 20 per cent more in 1941 than in 1938; reclamation, water control, reforestation rose almost a third; streets and highways climbed about 20 per cent.

The high cost of war seems to be inevitable. There are those who think that in time of emergency one could economize on non-emergency expenses. Or is that horse-and-buggy thinking?

WASTEFUL PROCRASTINATION

While officials ponder a rubber program, thousands of tires that could be saved are being ruined. Those are the tires which, recapped or retreaded today, would be good for perhaps another 10,000 miles. If operated much longer without recapping, they will be beyond salvation, and their carcasses will be good for nothing but scrap.

So long as Washington does nothing to rejuvenate such carcasses—and at the same time makes it clear that the owners cannot get new rubber for their cars—this waste will go on. Every motorist, quite naturally, will run on what tires he possesses until they give out entirely.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Maureen O'Hara disobeyed doctors and got out of bed too soon; now she's back again. . . . Linda Darnell bought her mama and family a house in Brentwood, but still refuses to join them. . . . A new rush of color films is scheduled for fall; even Wally Beery will appear in one, as will Mickey Rooney in "Kim."

I hear Betty Hutton wants to marry test pilot Sidney Luft but he's not sure. . . . Desi Arnaz didn't re-sign with RKO; he'll free lance. . . . The columnists are doing their darnedest to separate Ava Gardner and Mickey Rooney, but aren't succeeding. . . . Michele Morgan is at Del Monte to rest and to see a certain famous golfer.

Screen newcomers Marjorie Lord and John Archer, man and wife in private life, play man and wife in the new "Sherlock Holmes." . . . Ha! Diana Barrymore designed some dresses for an eastern wholesale house and promised the royalties to USO; she just received a check—for 86 cents! THIS WAR IS SERIOUS, SO BUY BONDS!

Martha O'Driscoll is so pleased with Edmund O'Brien, Nancy Kelly's ex, that she took him home to meet her mama. . . . Alex D'Arcy, first reported to be in Egypt, is ill in Washington; Arleen Whelan, his wife, has left to visit him. . . . I hear that Greer Garson has decided her regard for Richard Ney was purely maternal.

The Director Gregory LaCavas (he made "Primrose Path") are divorcing soon. . . . Eddie Cantor and his Ida were at a preview the other night when a newsreel of that Canadian family with 20 children went on; the Cantors took a terrific ribbing. . . . So it looks like Kathryn Grayson will also call off her SECOND divorce suit filed against John Shelton.

Laugh of the Week: Melville Cooper, the character actor, tells a honey about a big game hunter who was about to shoot an elephant in Africa, when he noticed the beast was limping. Good sportsmanship barred the killing of an injured beast, so the hunter dropped his gun. As he did, the elephant lifted its foot, and the hunter saw a huge thorn, which he withdrew. With a grateful glance, the pachyderm moved into the forest. Years later, the hunter and his son attended a circus. The usual parade, led by the elephants, opened the show. Suddenly, one elephant stepped out of line, seized the hunter and his son with his trunk—and lifted them out of the 25c section into the $2 reserved seats!

Preview Nights: Pic of the Week: RKO's "The Big Street" (Henry Fonda-Lucille Ball). If you're a Damon Runyon fan you'll love it; seeing it will make you a Runyon fan. . . . Recommended: MGM's "Somewhere I'll Find You" (Clark Gable-Lana Turner). Two dynamite stars turn on the boudoir heat and cause an explosion. . . . 20th Century-Fox's "Tales of Manhattan" (All-star). A great cast makes fun out of a story that's a bit thin. . . . Good: RKO's "Wings and the Woman" (Anna Neagle-Robert Newton). The moving movie-ography of Amy Mollison, England's ace woman flier. . . . RKO's "Mexican Spitfire's Elephant" (Lupe Velez-Leon Errol). Best of this series to date; laughs as big as pachyderms. . . . So-So: Universal's "Drums of the Congo" (Ona Munson-Stu Erwin). A Gene Krupa record is better.

Confidential Communiques to: Jack Benny: A certain famous band leader is mighty embarrassed, after telling friends he was to replace Phil Harris on your air show—before Harris was deferred by his draft board. . . . Lana Turner: Hurrah for you, telling that officious studio boss who criticized your marriage to your face that "you remembered nothing in your contract giving MGM the right to regulate your private life." . . . Jackie Cooper: Folks who said you and Jack Briggs were near blows over Bonita Granville must feel silly after the elaborate farewell party you gave Briggs just before he enlisted in the marine corps.

Odd-Formation: Gene Krupa, genius of the drums, though right-handed, learned to write with his left hand to keep his left wrist supple. . . . Add handy-men: Robert Taylor plans most of the family menus. . . . "The Loves of Edgar Allan Poe" was filmed at a comparatively cheap figure, but its production costs amount to about 17 times the total life earnings of Poe. . . . Betty Field will become a mother and a grandmother this fall—her stepdaughter is expecting, too. . . . Before he was signed for pictures, cowboy star Roy Rogers hauled gravel for a local golf course. . . . Movie raindrops are made with mixed water and skimmed milk; plain water blurs when photographed.

Andy Devine says that a sore-loser producer and a New York actor were playing gin-rummy. The actor assembled a good hand and laid it down, crying, "Clean! I win!" "Oh, no, you don't!" snarled the producer, "I have three jacks, four eights—and the option on your contract!"

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

Little children have to do much of their playing indoors. That means they must have a place of their own where the grown up people will not intrude, where their work can remain day after day as long as it is wanted. This is not always easy to provide in the usual city and town apartment or house, but some place must be set aside for the children.

If there is no one room to which they can go, at least give them a corner of a room; and if their things have to be listed and put out of sight, have a place where they may be kept in order. The child who has no place in the house for his play soon feels he has no place in the home. That is how you would feel if there were no room in which you could work. He has just that feeling about his play.

The things the child plays with inside the house are smaller, lighter, more easily managed than those he uses outdoors, so the toy auto, the little dolls, the tiny carts, the small blocks come in handy. He can get a lot of fun out of paper things—dolls, houses, animals, cut out and pasted on firm cardboard take little room anywhere and can be neatly housed in a box. They come in handy for all kinds of play and a new one can be made on the instant he is needed.

Plastecine is fine for indoor work. It can be made into any shape needed and then used again next day for something else. It is cleaner than clay, but clay can be dried and painted and used for more permanent things. Clay makes a mess, and when it is dry it makes dust, but if you can overcome these two annoyances it is a valuable medium for children of all ages.

A sand tray makes a fine center of play for little children. In it they make farms, parks, real estate developments, stock farms, villages, according to their imaginative ideas. Bits of mirror, the little ones from handbags are just right because they have no sharp edges, make lakes and ponds. Colored sand and gravel make roads and paths. Little trees and houses are easily made from paper and painted as wanted. Colored crayons help out if paints are not feasible.

Don't try to have the children make perfect objects. If a child sticks a chip in the sand and calls it a house or a horse, let him. If you want to make a tiny paper box, paint doors and windows on it and call it a stable, good. He will let you do so provided you do not mess up his plan. Remember it is his own plan that is helping him to grow in power and skill, not your plan.

If a grown-up tries to teach a child how to make things while the child is deeply involved in creating a play scheme, nothing is gained and much is lost. Let him do as he does. If later he asks for help in making some object, show him how to get the thing done in the simplest fashion, the childish fashion. Don't insist upon finished edges and accurate measurements. Little children cannot achieve them and are distressed by any attempt to do so.

The game is the thing, not the equipment. A model of a house or a farm is an adult project. A sand tray worked according to a child's ideas is no model, but it is an achievement likely to inspire growth and a desire for skill in the child who makes it.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson For August 23
Text: Genesis 28:10-22
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor Of Advance)

The Bible in its many books is the story of how good and noble and beautiful things have come out of unfavorable characters and environments. It is a book of remarkable realism in the frankness with which it has recorded the sins and shortcomings even of those who might be regarded as patriarchs, prophets, and saints.

All this is strikingly illustrated in the case of Jacob, with whom this lesson has to do. Born of a scheming and tricky mother, he first appears as a schemer and trickster himself, with his mother's help defrauding his brother Esau out of his inheritance so that he may grab everything for himself. Elements of this intrigue and treachery remained with him even after he became the medium of higher and nobler experiences. But the story tells how the deceiver was himself deceived, and the point worthy of note is that with all Jacob's evil tendencies and qualities, there was that in him upon which something substantial could be built.

It was in this respect that he stood so strongly in contrast with his brother Esau. Good-natured, easy-going Esau was in many ways the more likable of the two, but how could anything stable or permanent have been built upon him? He showed little sense of values or of capacity for responsibility, and was utterly weak in ways in which Jacob was strong.

Our lesson illustrates what the power of God and the vision of God may do with men who have positive force and strength in them, although there may be in their conduct a great deal to condemn. Take a man of worldly ambition whose thoughts are taken up with self-aggrandizement and material success and who is willing to exert great energy and undergo privation and sufferings for the attainment of his ambition. Give that man the vision of something that is more worthwhile. Above all things, let him get a vision of God and of the standards of success that Jesus proclaimed and emulated in His life, and such a man may become a tremendous power for good. It is in this respect that it has sometimes been said that the greatest sinners have made the greatest saints—though that is not by any means always true.

The symbolism of this lesson has taken hold very strongly in the world's literature and in its religious life. Jacob's Ladder is the typical means of communication between earth and heaven, and the vision that Jacob had has become intimately associated with the experience that is possible for every Christian who seeks God's guidance and God's help.

Jacob's religious practice also has become a symbol and an example for many Christians who devote a definite portion of their income to religious purposes. Jacob of course was something of a bargainer, even in his religion. He gave, hoping to receive, and he had not learned the lesson that it is more blessed to give than to receive. But he did bargain to give one-tenth and one can only reflect upon what would happen in this world if all who profess religious faith were willing to be tithers. It is not for those who are giving a great deal less and for those who have a great deal to give to cavil at Jacob's establishing a percentage between himself and God. To all of which it should be added that Jacob received a great deal more than he gave.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

SWAM 10 MILES AT THE AGE OF 110—Henry Jenkins, a Yorkshireman known as the modern Methuselah, was born in 1501 and died in 1670, at the age of 169. His age is recorded on a black marble tablet in the church of Bolton where he is buried. He appeared as a witness in a court twice in his lifetime, once at the age of 120, and a second time when he was 157 years old. At the age of 110, he swam 10 miles.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(World Washington Correspondent)

The shoe is on the other foot now. The United States has become one of the "have not" nations.

This has happened faster than most people have realized—faster than even the experts thought it could ever happen. It has happened in less than six months. And few people yet appreciate how serious a situation this is.

You remember everything that was taught you on this subject in school. The United States was the richest nation on earth with plenty of everything for all, even without colonies. The United States was a definitely "have" nation.

Great Britain was also a "have" nation, though it depended on its colonies for most of its raw materials.

In the other category were the "have not" nations—Japan, Germany and Italy, for instance—which not only were far from self-sufficient in their own economy but also did not have the colonies to give them the things they lacked. From the Hitlerian point of view, that was one of the reasons for this present war.

It may have been hard for the United States to appreciate such a situation before the war began, but it shouldn't be hard to understand now. The "have not" business extends right down to the American family icebox and pantry shelf.

You have not sufficient sugar, sufficient coffee, sufficient tea, sufficient rubber to ride on for at least the next two years. In some areas are shortages of meat, gasoline, fuel oil. Mammy's got corn to burn, but Mammy ain't got 'nuf rice, 'nuf cocoanut oil, by a long shot.

In the larger fields of industry and manufacturing the "have not" list is longer than both your arms, stretched out horizontally, from finger tip to finger tip. The United States has not sufficient of even such basic stuff as iron and steel and copper and more than 500 other officially listed materials, including even junk. Within the last few days the war production board has issued a list of 500 commodities it had placed on an emergency shipping priorities list. They are vital to the nation's wartime economy. They run from abrasives to zincorium. They must all be imported, from all parts of the world.

Isolationists Debunked

The faster you let that fact sink in your stream of consciousness, the faster you will realize that all this talk about splendid isolation—the ability of this country to crawl in its shell and let the rest of the world go by—is utter and complete bunk.

A lot is said about these Four Freedoms that the United States is fighting for. Yes, they're wonderful and everyone would like to have them sticking around. But you'll soon realize there is something more fundamental than that this country has to fight for if you give this "have not" situation its full and proper significance.

As a "have not" nation today, the United States is fighting for just simple existence.

There is much more to this war than just ridding Europe of Hitler and Japan of its arrogant, double-crossing military martinets. This is a fight for life.

At the start of the war in Europe, it was assumed that the British had succeeded in blockading the Nazis, and that because Germany was a "have not" nation, it could be starved into defeat. But now the other shoe is pinching the other foot in that regard. Germany made herself self-sufficient by sacrifices, synthetics and stockpiles, and by submarines she has in effect established a counter-blockade which interfered seriously with the goods brought into the United States. It is not at all out of order today for a neutral to ask, "Who is blockading whom?"

Where The 'Have Not' Really Hurts

Viewed in that light, winning the war is not just a question of how much material of war the United States can export to Britain, Soviet Russia, China, Australia. Before sufficient war materials can be exported, there must be imported into the United States the raw materials needed to manufacture the munitions that must be exported. That's where your "have not" comes in and hurts the hardest.

It is because of these shortages that this agitation for cargo planes assumes its present importance. Building enough cargo planes to haul all the war goods that must be imported and exported and supplied to American expeditionary forces in the seven seas is out of the question. A fleet of planes that could hurdle the submarine blockade to bring in all of the 500 critical materials isn't necessary. All that is needed, according to Donald M. Nelson's WPB committee on cargo planes, is a fleet that will bring in adequate supplies of just 37 strategic materials.

The list is restricted, but it is permissible to say that the United States can conceivably lose this war for being a "have not" nation in just 37 items. That's how important it is that this country get out and stay out of the "have not" category. That is a new reason No. 1 for fighting and winning the war.

TULLOS MONUMENT TO BE UNVEILED

Ouachita Valley Camp No. 10, Woodmen of the World, will pay honor to a member, Leon Tullos, who died several months ago, by an unveiling ceremony at his grave in Riverview Burial park, Sunday at 4 p.m. A handsome monument has been erected and will be disclosed to the public for the first time at the exercises.

All officers of the camp and the entire membership is expected to attend and the friends of the Tullos family and the public are invited to attend.

There will be short addresses given in which the life of Mr. Tullos as camp member and worthwhile citizen will be stressed.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Dairy: Spent the day across the Hudson in Passaic and Garfield, and learned three things that I've always wanted to know:

1. Why God made burrs.
2. Who is the best-dressed man.
3. What women walk backward most gracefully.

Cockleburrs and sandburrs were among the dire trials of my childhood. I used to ask Mother why a good God made such instruments of torture, and Mother said that no doubt they had their uses, even if only to punish us for our sins.

Today, in one of the great Forstmann mills I saw burrs very much like the cockle being used to scratch up a fine nap on the goods out of which army officers' coats are made.

These burrs are called teasels, and they are raised in great quantities for the specific purpose of creating just the right nap on fine woolen goods. They look so much like the cockle that I'm sure the cockle would answer the same purpose.

The burrs are packed between the jaws of a long wooden device called a tasel-board, and the process of running the cloth through the brushes or combs thus formed is called teaseling.

Fine steel pins are sometimes used for teaseling, but nothing does the work quite as well as the burrs, I was told.

Now, the best-dressed man, I discovered, is the American service man.

I saw the cloth made, from which is made the army's clothing. I watched the process, from the unloading of the carloads of raw wool to the final inspection and testing.

Not an ounce of anything but wool goes into a single yard of the goods. Except in the case of one garment, every ounce is virgin wool. Government specifications call for a certain percentage of used or re-worked wool in one garment, but the suits, for enlisted men as well as officers, must be of pure virgin wool.

Fortunately, I was told, there is no shortage of wool in this country. The American clip has been supplemented with shiploads from Australia and South America.

But the plants are restricted as to civilian output, because government orders keep them busy most of the time.

The mills I visited shut down for only a few hours each week, for maintenance and repair work.

I saw hundreds of women, of wide age-range, walking backward far more gracefully than the debutantes and dowagers I've seen at the King of England's garden parties, in the movies.

They are the women who tend the mules in the great spinning plants. The mules are spinning machines that run backward and forward on wheels somewhat smaller than bicycle wheels. As they alternate, forward and back, these machines carry with them, in the manufacturing process, millions of fine wool threads that soon will be coats on our soldiers.

Each mule is followed by one or more women, who watch the machines and repair any broken treads. These women walk backward half their working hours. They do it as gracefully as though that were the only way to walk.

One of the finest pieces of heavy cloth you can find anywhere is the skin from which are made the overcoats of all officers in the army.

No civilian in the world has a better, more serviceable, or more dressy overcoat. The doeskin (technical name for a certain kind of wool fabric) is far better and purer than that for which thousands of American tourists used to voyage to Bermuda.

One thing you needn't worry about, Mom and Pop back home. That boy of yours is the best-dressed young man in the world.

PLAN HOUSEHOLD FAT CAMPAIGN

The household fat campaign, rendered necessary as a war measure, will be observed in Ouachita parish and will be given impetus by the members of the 4-H and women's home demonstration clubs, states Mrs. Jewel L. McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, Saturday.

Kitchen fats that can be spared are vitally needed she said for explosive manufacture and other uses.

Women of the parish are asked to get in touch with their neighborhood leaders where they will receive needed information, or from Mrs. McQuiller's office, phone 3544. A minimum regulation is that at least one pound of fat must be included in any donation that is made.

Each Monday at 4:45 p.m. Mrs. McQuiller will give a short talk on the local radio on the subject of household fat conservation.

SOLDIERS BUSY DOING MENDING

Louisiana Group In Maneuvers Take Time Out For Repairs

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, SOMEWHERE IN LOUISIANA, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Housewives today appeared in large numbers throughout the Third army maneuver area, but they weren't the kind generally associated with this term.

These were soldier housewives, a small, olive drab colored canvas packet containing needles, thread, buttons and scissors and the men of Lieutenant General Walter Krueger's army brought them forth for some much-needed mending in the first relatively long rest period of their strenuous field maneuvers.

Two weeks of almost unbroken campaigning in the rugged terrain of the far-flung maneuver area took a heavy toll of buttons and uniforms, and like good soldiers, the first thing the Third army troops did when they got a rest period was to clean up, brush up, and mend up.

Meanwhile, however, while the troops enjoyed a breather, there was no rest for the headquarters directors group, which is directing the field operations. Staff officers and enlisted technicians were busy with the critique of the last exercise, and completing preparations for the new series of tough combat problems which get under way early Tuesday.

The critique will be delivered tomorrow morning by Major General Dan I. Sultan, commander of the Eighth army corps.

The first of the new maneuvers will involve a conflict on an east-west axis in contrast to the previous problems which were north-south actions. Two powerful task forces will be pitted against each other in the defense of an important natural strong point.

Chiefs of the directors group are deputy directors, Colonels Clyde D. Eddleman, J. S. Robinson and Philip L. Thurber; liaison section, Major O. E. Moldenhauer; critique and editorial section, Lieutenant Colonel McCord McIntyre; cavalry, Lieutenant Colonel P. M. Martin; administrative, Major R. F. Michalak; operations, Major C. A. Cockefair; maps, Captain D. A. Alberti; supply, Lieutenant Colonel G. M. Palmer; drafting, Major P. S. Finn.

There was much discussion at headquarters today of a remarkable radio phenomenon that occurred in the midst of the final hot battling of the last problem. Artillery fire markers, who use radio sets of a limited range, suddenly had their communications disrupted by interference from a police department hundreds of miles distant in southern Illinois.

Messages directing police cars sputtered out of the fire markers radios preventing them from recording the fire of the artillery guns. As a result for a period during the height of the battle few hits were credited to the batteries. The interference was finally eliminated by still another phenomenon when the distant police radio station was contacted over one of the small fire marker sets and asked to suspend broadcasting.

No one at headquarters has yet figured out the extraordinary occurrence.

DOG FRISKY AGAIN

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Herman, the dachshund, is frisky again, now that he is getting his landlegs. Herman has spent most of his life in a bomber; in fact, he'd still be there if his master had not drawn a desert assignment and Herman just couldn't take the heat. So the little dachshund was sent to a friend in Asheville to enjoy mountain air for the duration.

The ordinance, providing fines for tavern owners caught in violations, range from $25 to $200 in the city, and from $50 to $1,000 in the county plus jail terms.

BRITAIN'S SHIPS ASSAULT RHODES

cers jammed cotton wool in their ears to deaden the concussion when the firing started.

With long white gauntlets pulled over my hands and a white helmet over my head, and a rubber-banded white mesh over my face covering all but my eyes and wearing my new American tin helmet, I climbed the ten-foot steel ladder with the commander to the after steering tower and searchlight deck.

Ammunition hoists were rushing big shells up to the gun turrets from lockers deep in the warship.

Seven minutes to 1. The big show in Rhodes had already started. Flares fell from British aircraft illuminating the tarkets. The Italians had started firing hundreds of antiaircraft shells.

Searchlight beams descended seaward. My heart pounded madly as the light swept the sea and I saw the flagship of this squadron caught in the ray. I thought now we had been discovered. The heavy shore batteries would open fire on us before the warships could turn into a broadside position. The searchlight suddenly switched off. Nothing happened.

Five minutes to 1. "What time is it?" asked the commander. I glanced at my oil-stained luminous watch, the same one I wore when I went down with this cruiser's sister ship Galatea off Alexandria December 16 last.

"We are due to fire now," the commander said when I told him the hour.

At that moment the first salvo of heavy high explosive shells leaped from the muzzles of this warship's guns.

Deafening, blinding salvoes hurtled the big shells shorewards. More antiaircraft fire from the enemy on shore broke out, then their heavy batteries swung into action. Projectile after projectile swished overhead and splashed into the sea on the portside of our ship. Three big shells smacked into the sea a few feet to our starboard.

On shore the enemy was raising a big smoke screen over the harbor.

A shelling to me has always been the most chilling of naval experiences, but tonight the Nazis and Fascists added an extra attraction—the torpedo boats.

"Two enemy E-boats off starboard aft," a sailor reported to the commander. The four-inch batteries roared. Shell after shell poured into the blackened waters where the torpedo boats were racing toward our warships.

There were great splashes of water but it could not be seen whether any of the torpedo boats had been hit. But neither were we. Another torpedo boat skirted to our portside but couldn't get across a torpedo before a four-incher began raking the sea.

More antiaircraft fire and more flaming onions. The fleet fired a few parting shots while the heavy British and American bombers took over the job of beating up the airdrome and harbor works—at least what was left of them.

Ashore in Rhodes the Italians and Germans were getting hotter every minute as the pathway of flame streaked along the waterfront. In Rhodes they know now that a Rome broadcast stating that the British fleet had been chased out of the eastern Mediterranean is a little off color.

This was the fourth bombardment of Rhodes since Italy entered the war. The captain of this warship in typically conservative British fashion commented: "We threw a scare into them and did what we set out to do."

En route back to port there were several reports that enemy aircraft were about, but they failed to catch up with the bombarding fleet and every British warship safely reached its base. The only casualty in this shelling was myself. I stepped into an open hatchway in the blackout and fell five feet before catching a handgrip on the steel railing. I wound up with a badly sprained ankle and contusions.

GERMANS ADMIT WASP UNDAMAGED

afire—not as reported on August 13 the United States aircraft carrier Wasp—and the aircraft carrier Furious, 22,450 tons, reached Gibraltar heavily damaged."

Damage to three cruisers and destroyers.

Slight losses to the Germans and Italians.

The Germans acknowledged that remaining ships of the convoy, "some badly damaged," reached Malta, but said they were being subjected to heavy air attacks.

The Italians reported today that a motor torpedo boat torpedoed a destroyer at close range; bombers hit a ship of "great tonnage" with heavy bombs; torpedo planes hit a heavy cruiser and another cruiser and torpedoed the prow of a battleship.

The Rome radio further claimed that one cargo ship from the convoy was torpedoed and sunk as it tried to make port at Sousse, French Tunisia, and more than 200 convoy survivors were rescued off Tunisia.

Berlin broadcast a Madrid report that a damaged British merchant ship from the convoy reached Valencia, Spain.

ATTACKS WITH NO REGARD FOR LIFE

cal areas facing Stalingrad were going.)

The Germans also attacked in the Voronezh area at the top of the long southern front and slightly pressed back the Soviets, the communique declared. However, the Russians beat the Axis forces back and killed 400 Germans.

Apparently in this area also, on the western bank of the Don, 600 Hungarians were killed and a group of Hungarian troops went over to the Red army, the Russians said.

The communique told of no major change in the Caucasus, with stubborn fighting continuing in the areas of Cherkessk, Mineralnye Vody, Krasnodar and Maikop.

The fight was particularly fierce in the Krasnodar area, the communique indicated. It reported several German attacks were repulsed and 400 Germans were killed.

German attempts to cross a river (presumably the Kuban) were repulsed and three pontoon bridges were destroyed, with the enemy losing 500 killed.

Battles against tanks and mechanized infantry of the Germans were continuing in the Mineralnye Vody area, the communique added.

The midnight communique did not mention the fronts above Voronezh. (The Germans have reported considerable fighting on the northwestern areas between Moscow and Leningrad but the Russians have had little to say about those in recent communiques.)

A break in the Russian lines south of Kotelnikovski poised the new threat to Astrakhan.

The sheer weight of Nazi reserves forced the Russians to "withdraw slightly" south of Kotelnikovski, a region from which the Germans also were threatening Stalingrad, 95 miles to the northeast. Between the Nazi vanguards and Astrakhan at the mouth of the Volga on the Caspian sea lie 240 miles of bare wasteland which have poor roads. Much of the land is swampy and below sea level.

Astrakhan and Stalingrad both are athwart the vital Allied supply line from the Persian gulf and the oil route from Baku to interior Russia. The loss of either would imperial gravely Russia's war potential.

A bad break in the Russian defenses was acknowledged in the mid-day communique in the Krasnodar district of the Caucasus, where German automatic riflemen forced their way across the Kuban river. The Germans there endangered Maikop (which they have claimed to have captured) and its oil fields and also increased the hazard of Red army units being cut off from the Black sea.

The communique said the Germans massed big groups of tanks and motorized infantry at Krasnodar but that they were paying bloodily for every gain. Russian planes and ground troops fought resolutely "to exterminate the German riflemen who crossed to the south bank" of the Kuban.

Red Star reported the speed of the German assault in the direction of Maikop, Cherkessy and Mineralnye Vodi was slowed somewhat.

The battle in the Caucasus was so mobile that the military press declared there was no such thing as a front in the present fighting.

(A Stockholm report broadcast by the Vichy radio said the Germans were obliged to rush reinforcements of planes and possibly troops to meet Russian attacks in the Rzhev, Vyazma, Bryansk and Voronezh sectors where the Nazis have reported Russian attacks for two weeks.

(The Germans announced the capture of Georgievsk on the Baku railway, 120 miles from the Grozny oil fields, and said bitter defensive battles were being fought against diversionary Russian attacks northwest of Voronezh and in the Vyazma-Rzhev area 130 miles west of Moscow).

Red army units in the Caucasus were reported hard pressed by the German assaults, and were having to exercise extreme care to prevent encirclement. Red Star said the Germans were frequently regrouping and concentrating large numbers of machines on the flat, plain-like land so suitable for their motorized operations.

While the Russians fought to repair the break at Krasnodar, they were battling another push 150 miles to the southeast in the Chekessk region. Between these two battles, determined attacks were being made toward the Maikop oil fields.

Dispatches said the Germans had piled up large reserves for fresh assaults on Stalingrad and had thrown some of them into the battle in the Don bend at Kletskaya, 75 miles northwest of the city, and into the Kotelnikovsk fight.

The Russians at Kletskaya were driven to the banks of the Don at one section but Red Star said they were inflicting appalling casualties. The Germans threw waves of 20 to 30 tanks at the defenses, but the Russians from abushes burned out many. The tanks were followed by waves of infantry.

The Kotelnikovski fighting saw masses of German mobile forces moving up and down the lines seeking weak spots for break throughs. But the Germans were admittedly in superior strength.

For two weeks now, the Germans have attacked heavily on two fronts toward Stalingrad with little success.

"The firmness of the Red army holds the Germans from Stalingrad," Pravda reported. Stalled in the Volga hills northeast of Kotelnikovski, Pravda said the Germans were trying to win time in order to bring up an overpowering number of reserves. They were reported even erecting barbed-wire obstacles four lines deep in some sectors.

The Kletskaya battle frequently became hand-to-hand fighting with both sides using grenades liberally. The Russians were reported to have recaptured one populated place. Pravda said the banks of the Don were littered with smashed German planes which have been trying to raid the big Cossack town of Kletskaya for two weeks.

South of Voronezh on the upper Don, Red Star reported the Germans launched sharp new attacks to try to recapture lost positions. At one place, the Russians were driven back but they regrouped swiftly and charged, hurling the Nazis back to their original positions. Heavy bombers supported the German ground attacks.

COMMITTEE TO AID NAVY DRIVE

Ewing said. "Its exploits are already pointing the way to victory. It builds boys into sturdy men. It puts them into top-notch physical condition. It teaches them their choice of 49 different skilled trades. The opportunity for rapid promotion is better than ever because of fleet expansion."

"The plan of interesting fine young men in Navy enlistment centers around this Navy committee of prominent citizens of Monroe who provide the necessary civic action and importance, and under whose sponsorship a working group can carry out the steps more readily," Secretary Knox wrote.

"I do not need to emphasize that new ships are being launched, and more and more new planes are coming off the assembly lines—far ahead of schedule," the secretary continued. "Consequently the Navy is in vital need of a steadily increasing number of recruits."

At the same time, the local recruiting office reported a total of 175 recruits for the month of July. The local office's record was reported "most successful."

"Again Monroe is ahead of the parade," Chief G. R. Wheeler said. "Monroe's Navy Recruiting station has long been the leading sub-station in Louisiana and it is hoped that it will continue to be the leading station in the state."

Chief Wheeler also stated that the local unit of the Sea Scout Ship Lexington is assisting in the recruiting drive. Chief Torpedoman W. L. Reichart and Yoeman 2c R. C. McRee, Jr., instructed the troop on recruiting policy of the United States Navy. Chief Quartermaster G. W. Clark and Pharmacists Mate 1c M. R. Coger have arrived with the Navy sound truck from New Orleans to accompany the Sea Scouts on visits to various towns in this area. Wheeler said.

On Monday the group will visit Tallulah and on successive days will go to Delhi, Rayville, Lake Providence, Oak Grove, Bastrop, Sterlington, Ruston, Farmerville, Jonesboro, Hodge, Winnsboro, Olla and Columbia, it was announced.

expected slowing down of the victory march in the south.

By contrast, Russian offensives at crucial points from Voronezh on the upper Don, to north of the Valdai plateau are reported by the Germans. Moscow gives them only passing mention, yet they may indicate a vast and cumulative attack pressure building up all along the north segment of the long Russian battle line now that Nazi forces in the south are badly extended. Berlin styles these thrusts as "relief" attacks and claims they have all been bloodily repulsed.

Nevertheless, with less than 90 days intervening before Russia's ancient ally, winter, again comes to her aid, Hitler's armies are still far from having set up a short winter line across Russia from the Baltic to the Caspian.

Tremendous new German advances to take Leningrad, Moscow and the Volga front below Stalingrad must be made before November if Hitler is to stand on a shortened winter line in Russia and be prepared to face westward against Anglo-American power gathering across the English channel. Failing that or a Russian collapse—of which there is no faint suggestion even in German propaganda—he will be more greatly extended in Russia next winter than he was last, when he fell back.

There has been continuous expectation in London and in China that Japan would step into the European war theater by attacking Russia from the rear at an opportune moment.

With American sea and air forces at last on the offensive in the southwest Pacific, however, a revision of the Japanese plan for Axis cooperation well may be in the making. That the stroke in the Solomons was in part timed by Washington to that end is virtually certain.

Nor can it be doubted that Japan, if she is to move at all against Russia this year, must move well before November 1. The Siberian theater offers very limited time for major action before winter takes over.

On all counts, therefore, the British view that the three-year-old war will reach its crisis before November seems well founded. It probably affords a key to the timing of possible Allied moves in Egypt or in the west.

North America is about a million square miles larger than South America.

NEW YORK AWAITS DEMOCRATIC MEET

in later after a "draft" movement, Mead claims to have cut into the Bennett strength through support of Governor Herbert Lehman, United States Senator Robert Wagner and National Chairman Edward J. Flynn.

Despite far-flung implications of the battle, the White House has had little to say publicly. At a press conference the president said:

"If I were a delegate to the convention, I would cast my vote for Jim Mead."

Then early this month when Farley accused Mead of being an isolationist, the president said that the senator was not an isolationist.

In the face of the presidential "plugs," Farley has maintained consistently that Bennett would be nominated and elected and predicted that Mead's name would never be presented to the convention.

"At the present time I feel that a chackup would show more than 700 votes for Bennett," the state chairman declared.

Terence J. McManus, chairman of the Mead-for-governor committee, claimed a majority of the 1,014 delegates without naming a specific figure.

Recent developments have indicated that Bennett was gaining ground. Five leaders of the powerful Tammany Hall delegation, generally considered in the Mead bloc, have endorsed the attorney general and one delegate has broken from the Bronx delegation, chairmaned by Flynn.

There has been virtually no activity in the Republican ranks where former District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey appears to have a clear field. The G. O. P. will convene August 24 at Saratoga.

The American Labor party, which gave Governor Lehman his margin of victory over Dewey in the last election, has indicated that Mead would be acceptable but has turned thumbs down on Bennett. The party will hold its convention here next Saturday.

All reports of a compromise have been spiked promptly by the Democratic rivals and Owen D. Young, persistently rumored as a choice, yesterday reiterated that he would not run.

As the jockeying for delegates went on, political circles kept an ear to the ground for something from the White House. Whether this might be a press conference remark or a surprise message to the convention itself none would venture a prediction. But it was generally believed something was in the wind.

FIVE PROMINENT DUTCHMEN SHOT

broadcast to the Dutch people, telling them this Nazi act would remain "a stain on the honor of the German people."

He said the time would come when the Netherlands government would bring to justice those who committed these crimes against innocent hostages.

Trial of those guilty of these executions will be "an aim and duty of the Netherlands government," he said.

"This trial will be public, speedy and just."

He declared pointedly, "Further explanation will reach you through the intermediary of the R. A. F., with which our men co-operate."

Sabotage that is rampant in German-occupied countries, said Gerbrandy, is proof that the Germans are incapable of governing conquered territories.

Elsewhere in Europe the position of the oppressed millions became graver.

The German intention of deporting 100,000 Jews from the Ghetto in Warsaw to an undisclosed place in eastern Europe was reported at the same time the Polish government announced in London the suicide of L. M. Czerniakov, the ghetto's mayor.

The Paris radio quoted a Vichy report saying 4,000 Jews had been deported from unoccupied France to eastern Europe.

The Poles asserted that Czerniakov always carried poison to use whenever German demands became "impossible" and added that undoubtedly he chose death rather than fulfill the order to prepare daily lists of those to be deported.

In Slovakia unconfirmed reports said Hungarian Premier Nicolas Kallay had told the foreign affairs committee of the Hungarian parliament that Hitler was convinced that Slovakia was unable to exist independently and had offered to "mediate" for its incorporation into Hungary, provided Hungarian industry was placed under German control and food shipments to the Reich were increased.

In Norway the ordination of Quisling bishops was reported to have ceased because the traitorous premier wished to avoid further conflict which would jeopardize future negotiations with the Norwegian church.

Not all aspects of the European scene were so grim.

From roundabout sources came word that a Dutch ironmonger at Utrecht had filled his windows with all the axes he had in stock and posted a sign:

"For the day of reckoning."

and up to closing time Saturday night, it was announced. The forms may be filled out and the bonds will be delivered by the respective merchants.

"Many persons have currency stored away in safe deposit boxes," one member of the committee pointed out. "Currency of the United States is the safest investment in the world but an investment in war bonds is even more attractive because it pays a dividend. If we lose the war and war bonds lose their value, then certainly United States currency would also be worthless. Hence, it is just as safe and much more profitable to invest that idle capital in war bonds."

ASSERTS U. S. MUST DEPEND ON PLANES

SOMEWHERE IN OKLAHOMA, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, said today America's expanding air power offers her only hope of escape from a war between the hemispheres "that would have possibilities of lasting for generations."

Speaking at the formal dedication of a new mass production bomber plant, one of the biggest and best equipped in the nation, Lee declared that United States offensive strategy should be built entirely on the basis of air power.

President Donald W. Douglas of the Douglas Aircraft company, which supervises the new plant in assembling B-24 bombers, said he was not at liberty to disclose the type, size or number of planes the company is building.

"But I can tell you that large cargo planes and giant transports are under way. These giant airplanes will give the United States army a mobility it has never before known."

He described the Oklahoma plant, housed in a mile-long "blackout" building, as one of the largest single-unit aircraft plants in the world and predicted its assembly lines would set records "that never have been equaled."

With this plant and others being operated by the "partnership" of American aircraft makers, he said, "we will build planes fast enough to blow hell out of the Brownshirts, the Blackshirts and the little yellow bellies."

time like this they must establish confidence and good will with the newcomers and that only through the sale of dependable goods at lowest prices can this end be accomplished.

Summer goods must be moved from shelves to make way for fall merchandise and the buyers will be the ones to receive the advantage of this necessity by the dealer.

Storekeepers will put on extra help and there will be a minimum of waiting to receive attention if one comes early on Monday. Monroe's trade area has a population that is estimated at 300,000. Many of these will seek to trade here and they are welcome just as are the newcomers here for it takes all these to make a trading center such as Monroe and West Monroe have proved to be through the years, it was pointed out.

Merchants state that they have received many compliments from officers and men who have come here from Albany, Ga. These newcomers, after inspecting local stores, have asserted that these mercantile establishments are larger and more up-to-date and with stocks that are bigger and better than in those of cities of the same size in other states. They already declare they are ready to put up Monroe goods and prizes against those of any other city of anywhere near the same size.

The hours in which stores will be open for business will be the same as on other week days, and all who are to trade here are urged to come early in the day when the best selections can be made and when stores are likely to be less crowded.

ENEMY'S VESSELS HEAVILY DAMAGED

the beach, presumably sent down by gunfire the previous day.

The text of the navy report follows:

"Further reports of the August 8 and August 9 raids on Kiska now have been received by the navy department, revealing that a fourth enemy vessel—a destroyer—was hit and damaged in those actions.

"This destroyer was left standing out of the harbor and on fire at conclusion of the bombardment of Kiska on August 8 by a task force of the Pacific fleet which was announced in communique number 103."

"As previously revealed in the same communique, naval patrol planes attacked and heavily damaged two cargo vessels in the harbor on August 9 and at the same time, observed a third cargo ship sunk near the beach, apparently as a result of the previous day bombardment.

"About ten enemy cargo ships or transports, four submarines and a destroyer were observed in the harbor before the bombardment by the United States task force. Seaplane fighter attacks and desultory firing of shore batteries were the only opposition encountered by the task force, which received no damage to ships and lost only one plane."

"More than 3,000 projectiles were fired at the enemy's main camp ashore and a large fire was started which was observed still burning the following day. The secondary camp to the southward and anti-aircraft emplacements at various locations of the island were heavily bombarded, resulting in the silencing of all batteries ashore."

NO. 8 STAMP GOOD FOR FIVE POUNDS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Sugar ration stamp No. 8 will be good for five pounds of sugar in the 10-week period beginning August 23 and ending October 31, the office of price administration announced today.

While not changing the basic ration of one-half-pound per person per week, it will enable consumers to make purchases in larger units and facilitate the disposal of five, ten and 25-pound packages.

Stamps Nos. 6 and 7, each good for two pounds of sugar, may be used until midnight, August 22. Stamp No. 7 gave the consumer a two-pound bonus.

MR. W. F. LAFFERTY

After receiving a little experience in the business world, Mr. and Mrs. Lafferty found that they were in need of the training B. M. I. offers and enrolled in that school February 1, 1939. They pursued the Private Secretarial Course and made excellent records.

They took part in all extra curricula activities and served as president and secretary of the B. M. I. club for one term. The club took on new life with its efficient leaders during that term.

On completing their courses they found good positions ready for them. Mrs. Lafferty today is serving as private secretary to Mr. L. D. Scharff of the Monroe Furniture Company. Mr. Lafferty has made several steps forward and for some time has been connected with the United Electric Service, Inc. He started in the office and has worked himself up to the title of Office Manager.

MRS. W. F. LAFFERTY

These two people are to be complimented for their progress in the business world, and B. M. I. is glad to have students working in leading firms of Monroe as the Monroe Furniture Company and the United Electric Service, Inc.

TRANSFER OF SCHOOL MADE

elation at reaching their new station, however. Tanned faces broken into smiles as the cadets descended from the train. One of them, observing the building operations on the field, yelled, "Hey, when do we get to civilization?"

Whatever was meant by civilization, they soon got to the messhall, and soon afterward to their barracks.

As a large party of officers and men of the field looked on, the cadets formed by squadrons, chucked their personal belongings into waiting trucks, and marched off to the messhall. They carried gas masks and raincoats. The raincoats came in handy, as a light rain began to fall while they were en route. Raincoats were donned on the march.

The Pre-Flight School for Navigators was activated early last May at Maxwell field. Until its transfer here it also provided pre-flight training for bombardiers.

According to Captain Ashby S. Patteson, commanddant of the pre-flight school's cadets, the enrollment has doubled since activation.

Occupation of the pre-flight school's administrative headquarters was being rushed to completion yesterday. A large number of barracks buildings, provided with chairs, stood ready for resumption of the classes which the cadets had been attending at Maxwell field.

The story of the transfer of the pre-flight school will be repeated within a very short period, when the advanced navigation school is transferred here from Turner field, at Albany, Ga. The advent of the advanced school, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel L. S. Moseley, will bring twin-engined navigation training planes to the field here in considerable numbers.

Through the operation of the two schools — pre-flight and advanced — Monroe's Army Air Forces Navigation school will provide the entire training of the air navigation cadet.

RESEARCHERS DECIDE GOEBBELS IS FAILURE

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Joseph Goebbels is so good at his job of propaganda that he's a failure, two University of Chicago researchers have decided.

Dr. Nathan C. Leites and Itheil Pool told the 21st annual institute of the Society for Social Research today that the twisted Reichsleader's newspaper work is such "pure propaganda" that it ceases to bear much resemblance to news and hence is a failure.

They cited the sudden way the German press drops subjects as indicative of its unreality, and compared it to the gradual way the uncontrolled American press handles news.

PRIVATE FOUND DEAD

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Private James H. Pridgen, 28, son of Mrs. Fionnie B. Pridgen, Selma, N. C., was found dead in the post hospital of the Lake Charles army flying school about 4:15 this morning, according to the public relations officer. A board of officers has been appointed to determine the cause of his death.

Every building in New York City could be dropped into the volcanic crater of Alaska's Mount Matmai, and still leave a hole twice as large as Hawaii's Kilauea.

HUNGRY CADETS CROWD MESS HALL AFTER TRIP

Hundreds of hungry cadets crowded the mess hall at the Army Air Forces Navigation school following their arrival here late yesterday afternoon in the transfer of the pre-flight school to the local field. Their special train was unloaded on a spur track at the Monroe field following the long trip from Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala.

Monroe Air School Navigator

The job of feeding several hundred men three times a day in such a way that neither their health nor their disposition suffers is a tough one, and the point needs no laboring.

Sgt. J. L. Brown

The mess sergeant is right in the middle of it.

These facts bring us to the point we started out for, namely, to introduce the first mess sergeant to run a K. P. detail at Monroe's Army Air Forces Navigation school — Staff Sergeant Jep L. Brown.

Sergeant Brown is right hand man to First Lieutenant William M. Kelley, who has been running the mess on field since the first meal served week before last.

The sergeant entered the service in September, 1940, from Bowdon, Ga. There he had worked in a grocery store and later had been foreman for a construction company. The grocery store is about as close to running a mess as he ever came in civilian experience.

Sergeant Brown's first permanent assignment was Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala. He left that post in May, 1941, to go to Turner field, Albany, Ga. From Turner Field he came here last week in the motor convoy.

Today he is no tyro at the mysteries of cuisine, although when he first got into uniform he had had no previous experience to speak of.

The army, in keeping with its policy of training its members for the jobs they are to do, and Sergeant Brown, in keeping with a desire to be well grounded in his field, got together. As a result the sergeant is a graduate of the two-month course offered by the Army Cooks and Bakers school at Fort Benning, Ga.

Sergeant Brown took this course while he was assigned to Maxwell field, and the background of experience gained enabled him to "start" a mess when he was transferred to Turner field.

The sergeant was asked whether he got into his job by preference or simply being assigned to it.

"Well," he said, "it was a little of both. When I got my first assignment to a permanent station, the, left me sitting around for about a week because there was nothing for me to do. I told 'em I was used to doing a day's work every day, and they found a place for me in the mess."

It seems to have worked out all right.

When troops were first billeted on the field about ten days ago, the era of the officer of the day began.

Previously, nobody had lived on the military reservation. Construction work went on into the wee hours, civilian guards were posted at the gates 24 hours a day, and firemen kept a vigil through the night. But nobody slept within the gates—unless he was copping a catnap away from his job.

When ground troops of the air forces took up quarters on the field, it became necessary under military regulations for an officer of the day to be on duty at all times. Consequently, a roster of officers below the grade of major was made up, and each officer now takes his turn at a 24-hour trick as O. D. The tour is from noon to noon.

The officer of the day is responsible to the commanding officer for the protection of property on the post from fire, theft and sabotage, and for accepting, keeping and releasing prisoners, among other things. In this capacity he is responsible, through subordinates, for the inspecting, posting and changing of the interior guard. One of his duties is to check personally on all sentinels at their posts at least once between midnight and sunrise.

To date, O. D.'s have not had any business in the prisoner line. But they do have sentries to post and inspect. Thus every night is re-enacted several times the scene of some lieutenant or captain, weary from a day's work, rising from his temporary cot, strapping on his .45 with a yawn, and plunging into the murk to visit his sentries. It's all in a day and night's work.

The distinction of being the first O. D. went to First Lieutenant Hugh C. Monro, a member of the advance party of the pre-flight school for navigators which preceded the pre-flight school here from Maxwell field.

The question has understandably been raised—why a veterinarian at an air field, of all places.

The answer to that one is that the vet's primary job is to inspect meats, poultry, fish, butter, cheese, milk and eggs that are obtained for the post. He calls these products "animal protein" foods. If they are purchased away from the post, he must check on the condition in which they arrive, packing, handling and so on. If they are bought at the post, he looks into the places where they are produced and processed to see that sanitary laws have been complied with both as to plant and employees, that the animals are healthy, and that approved practices are followed.

There are no available records showing the number of times in history a good sergeant has saved the day for an officer, in small matters and large.

Sgt. C. N. Traylor

If there were a figure, it would be astronomical, particularly where lieutenants are concerned, And it would make a good story.

One capable representative of this indispensable breed of soldier is Sergeant Clell N. Traylor, formerly of Shreveport, currently domiciled at Monroe's air navigation field.

A number of officers who have recently drawn officer of the day duty will long remember the sergeant's capable management of the newly formed interior guard—and remember it with pleasure.

Sergeant Traylor worked in a men's furnishing store in Shreveport after graduation from Haynesville High school. He entered the service thirteen months ago, and was permanently assigned to Turner field. As is usually the custom with recruits, he was given a spell of military police duty, doing office work.

He won his first rating as private first class on this job, then his corporals stripes. By this time he had decided to stay on in it. Last April he became a sergeant.

How does he like it?

"There's always something happening. There's nothing dull about it," says Sergeant Traylor.

"It's interesting — like hanging around a police station."

MAN EXPIRES AFTER SHREVEPORT MISHAP

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 15.—(AP)—N. A. Barnes, 71, died of shock at Charity hospital at 6 a.m. today after he had walked into the side of a slow-moving auto driven by G. P. Hatton, 30, of Levelland, Tex., at Texas avenue and Bavia street at 7:45 p.m. Friday.

Barnes was believed at first to have been only slightly injured, a police report showing he received apparently two minor lacerations on the right arm.

The car was inbound on Texas and going slow when Barnes, crossing from the south to north side, walked into it, police reports showed.

INITIAL THRUST IS TRIUMPHANT

yesterday but an intercepted Domei report from Batavia, occupied Java, admitted today that a "small enemy force was left on one Solomon island."

(Japanese in recent days have become curiously quiet on the Solomons battle but a report from Tokyo reaching London by a German broadcast acknowledged fierce fighting at one point.

("Fierce fighting is reported to be taking place between Japanese forces and United States marines who have landed on one of the Solomon islands," the Tokyo dispatch to DNB, German news agency, said.

(This was the first acknowledgement from the Axis side that battle had taken an adverse trend and it did not attempt to explain how the marines had established beachheads in the face of the Japanese claim—entirely unconfirmed—that the United States naval forces were routed.)

While Australian Army Minister Francis M. Forde warned his countrymen again that Australia still is in danger of invasion, quarters familiar with the topography of the Solomons attached optimistic significance to the United States navy department's assertion that the marines were consolidating "shore positions."

These quarters said this indicated progress had been made since Wednesday, when a communique claimed only that American forces were fighting to establish "beachheads."

(The London naval correspondent of the Yorkshire Post expressed belief that the marines had overrun the main airfield on Guadalcanal island, in the Solomons group. He said the main air field had been put out of action but no details yet were available.

(Without giving the source of his information, Walter Farr, the London Daily Mail's Washington correspondent, said in a dispatch to his paper that the marines were believed to have seized "the two small islands of Makambo and Gavutu near Tulagi" in the Solomons.

(Reuters, British news agency, picked up a Vichy radio report that United States forces had captured a Japanese airdrome on one of the Solomon islands.)

Persons familiar with the Solomons said the wild interior of the rugged, jungle covered mountains without roads might enable the Japanese to evade destruction or capture for a considerable period but would give them little chance of receiving reinforcements or organizing an effective counterattack as long as the Americans held the few developed coastal strips.

The Japanese have had several months to consolidate their strength in Tulagi island but in the few weeks that they have been on neighboring Guadalcanal island they have developed only one airfield at Kukum which is large enough for the use of fighter planes and possibly light bombers.

With special fanfare the Tokyo radio yesterday broadcast an imperial headquarters communique which claimed that 35 Allied vessels of all types had been sunk and six more damaged thus far against a Japanese loss of only 21 planes and two cruisers damaged in the battle of the Solomons.

Neither the communique nor subsequent commentaries of Japanese controlled stations referred to the position of the Japanese ground forces in the southeastern Solomons.

Revised official claims and commentaries broadcast from Japanese stations in the past 24 hours pointedly omitted claims that any Allied capital ships were sunk or involved in the naval operations off the Solomons.

What purported to be a running account of the Solomons operations, dispatched by Domei from Batavia, said the Allied fleet approached the Solomons August 7 and commenced landing operations in a dense fog.

This account said Japanese land based aircraft were in action all day against Allied ships and supporting planes. Domei said Japanese light naval units took up the fight at nightfall, attacking Allied warships and transports at close range in the darkness.

Neither the Domei nor other Japanese accounts indicated a large scale fleet action.

(However, the Farr dispatch to the London Daily Mail indicated the naval fight was of considerable proportions.

"At last warships of the American Pacific fleet have had a chance to get to close grips with large units of the Japanese navy," the dispatch said. It added that "for seven days now in the battle of the Solomon islands American warships have been dealing crippling blows to enemy naval power."

(The Tokyo dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio claimed again that the naval phase of the battle had been concluded, "only a few enemy units succeeded in escaping, apparently in the direction of Australia," this report said.

(Again this account of Japanese success had no confirmation from any source; it was in fact disproved by the United States navy announcement Friday that American naval units "are engaged in protecting our lines of communication and escorting supply vessels to our occupying forces."

Consolidation of their hard-won positions in the Solomons would enable the Americans to start equalizing the advantage held by the Japanese in the use of land-based fighter planes and dive bombers.

Airmen of General Douglas MacArthur's command continued vigorously to play their supporting role in the battle but their efforts so far have been limited to neutralizing Japanese attempts to send aid to their hard-pressed island garrisons.

American and Australian bombers have continued their relentless pounding of a convoy which they have been following and attacking for 48 hours.

HE'S ALREADY THERE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The army induction center here called a typewriter agency today to send a machanic to fix a broken machine. "He's there already," said a voice from the agency. A quick search turned up James O'Neill, there for induction, and his first official task as a member of the armed forces was to repair the broken typewriter.

problem. A homes registration office has been established and is located on the second floor of the K. of P. building. This office has been established for the purpose of aiding and assisting people moving to Monroe in locating homes, apartments or rooms.

"The response of the people of Monroe and West Monroe has been on the whole very good, but it still remains that a large number of additional living quarters are urgently needed. We believe it is the patriotic duty of our citizens to make every sacrifice possible to aid these new people in getting homes in which to live. We urge everyone who can spare a room, an apartment, or who has a house to rent to telephone the homes registration office at 3630 and list such living quarters as you can possibly afford.

"There is a demand for at least one hundred apartments and houses right now, and unless living quarters are found the families who desire to come here will either have to remain where they are or go to other towns around Monroe and drive back and forth to their work.

"Another thing that should be called to the attention of every property owner is the fact that rents should not be raised on account of this emergency. We are happy to say that a large majority of the people who have places to rent have not taken advantage of the situation, and have kept their rents reasonable and within the price range that soldiers and officers can afford to pay. However, there has been instances where this is not true. We urge and earnestly request that you do not take advantage of a situation that is facing us and unduly raise your rents.

"There has been a billeting committee appointed by the commanding officer of the Army Air Forces navigation school here, and one of their duties is to see that exorbitant rentals are not charged the personnel of the airport.

"If you have never rented an apartment or a house before it is suggested that you contact the local real estate agents the homes registration office, or the Chamber of Commerce to get an idea of what similar apartments or houses have been renting for.

"We are sure the people of the Twin Cities will cooperate in this movement."

TRIPLETS ARE BORN

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The first set of triplets to be delivered in St. Patrick's hospital here arrived this afternoon when three healthy boys weighing an average of about four pounds each were born to Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fink, 211 McNabb street.

There are six to 16 young in each litter of rats, and each rat has four or five litters a year.

HOMER WINS FOR BROOKLYN SQUAD IN FINAL INNING

Camilli Snatches 5-4 Victory For Loop Leaders Over Boston Braves

BROOKLYN, Aug. 15.—(AP)—With two out in the ninth inning and his team trailing by a run, Captain Dolf Camilli of the Dodgers blasted his 20th home run of the campaign over the right field wall to score Joe Medwick ahead of him and snatch a 5-4 victory over the Boston Braves today.

Jim Tobin, who went the route for the visitors, had two strikes on Camilli and the fans were starting for the exits when the Dodger star caught one he liked and pickled it. It was his third home run in two days. The blow increased Brooklyn's lead over the idle St. Louis Cardinals to nine and one-half games.

The Dodgers used four pitchers in the see-saw struggle, with Larry French going in in the ninth to get the decision, his 13th of the year. The Braves had scored what looked like the winning run in their half of the ninth without making a hit, the result of a walk to Eddie Miller, a successful sacrifice and an outfield fly.

In the eighth inning Manager Casey Stengel of the Braves was banished by Umpire Larry Goetz for making a violent protest when Fernandez was called out at first.

With Tobin limiting the leaders to three scattered hits for the first six innings, the Braves held a 3-1 margin going into the last of the seventh. Pete Reiser opened that frame by pounding his 10th homer of the year, after which a single by Dixie Walker, a stolen base and a single by Billy Herman tied the count at 3-3.

Only two Brooklyn runners were left stranded in the game.

URGES SPORT AS MINISTRY STUDY

Stagg Says Students Should Play Football Before Preaching

STOCKTON, Calif., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg, the dean of America's football coaches, advanced a novel idea on the eve of his 80th birthday.

Students for the ministry, he said, should consider a year of football a prerequisite of their calling.

Tonight the beloved coach was speeding by train to Chicago, where he taught football for 41 years. He will spend a few days vacationing before taking his College of Pacific team out on the Stockton gridiron. He will observe his 80th birthday tomorrow.

Stagg's ideas about preparation of clergymen were told here today.

He was talking to Al Philp, husky shotputter and discus thrower at College of Pacific, who had never been in a football suit.

"You ought to come out for football this fall," Mr. Stagg suggested.

"Do you think so?" young Philp countered.

"Aren't you a student for the ministry?" the coach persisted.

"Yes sir, I am."

"Then by all means you should come out. You can get more out of a year of football that will help you in the ministry than in any other course you could take in college.

"If you really want to understand the thoughts, emotions and the spirit of young men, knock up against them on a football squad."

Philp didn't promise, but he is thinking it over.

Stagg had hoped to spend his birthday tomorrow as a guest of the "C" society of the University of Chicago. But stacks of correspondence from his "boys" held his attention. More than 40 of his letter men at College of Pacific are in the army or navy. Of them, and the others, he said, "They will all serve their country well; that I know."

Then he said, "I feel the same about winning football games as about winning the war."

His two sons, Paul and Amos Alonzo, Jr., will meet the coach at Chicago Monday morning, and the three will go to a summer camp at Macatawa, Mich., for a few days. Stagg will be a guest of honor at the all star-pro football game August 28 at Chicago.

LAIRD HOLT NAMED HEAD GRID COACH AT CENTRE

DANVILLE, Ky., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Appointment of Laird Holt, 33, of Tusculum college, Greenville, Tenn., as head football coach and acting director of physical education at Centre college was announced today by Dr. Robert L. McLeod, Centre president.

Holt succeeds Quinn Decker, who was granted a leave of absence to become a lieutenant in the army air corps.

Holt, who was graduated in 1932 from the University of Tennessee, where he played end on the Volunteer grid team, has been head football coach and physical education director at Tusculum since 1940.

RED SOX DEFEAT SENATORS TWICE; YANKS WIN, LOSE

Boston Wins By One Run In Each Game; New York Takes Nightcap

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox hung two one-run defeats on Washington today, spoiling an upward surge by the Senators that had included 12 victories in their last 16 starts.

Ted Williams' 25th home run and Tex Hughson's pitching in the pinches gave the Red Sox a 2-to-1 victory in the opener, and Boston came from behind in the ninth inning of the nightcap to win, 7 to 6, on Lou Finney's two-run triple.

Ouachita Gridders Will Start Training Monday

New Coaching Staff Will Have Few Veterans To Work With In Squad Of More Than 50 Candidates For Team; Ruston Is First Opponent

The Lions of Ouachita Parish High school unpack their moleskins tomorrow and begin training for their 1942 gridiron campaign with a new coaching staff and a mass of new players who hope to be in the starting lineup when the locals open against the Ruston Bearcats on September 11.

Not less than 50 candidates for the new Lion edition are expected to turn out for the drills under Head Coach George Riser and Assistant Coach H. D. Payne.

Coach Riser, who has been conducting cotton dusting operations in Mississippi this summer, was named head coach about a month ago, succeeding Mack Avants, who is now a physical director in military service. Riser was formerly freshman football coach and tennis coach at Ouachita.

Payne is coming here from Winnsboro, where he was football coach at Winnsboro High school last year. He is a former Louisiana college athlete who was once named on the Little All-America eleven. Mac Givens, assistant coach last year, has returned to Smackover, Ark.

Coach Riser last night said the boys would meet at the Ouachita gymnasium tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when they will be issued light equipment for early drills. A light "get acquainted" workout will follow on the school grounds.

Less than a dozen boys who were members of the O. P. H. S. squad last year will be in action with the defending Class AA champions of north Louisiana this season.

Guards Clifton O'Neal and Charles Cain and Back J. M. McBeth are the only returning Lions with any experience of note, but Coaches Riser and Payne will also have Larry Bennett, Jerry Gregg, Fred Gulledge, Curtis Hall, Jase Johnson, Emmett Otwell, Percy Pace and Richard Pate, all of whom saw some service last season.

Coach Riser has announced the following list of players which he expects to report tomorrow and stated any other prospects desiring to try for the team should not hesitate to report.

Players expected: Roy Bailey, Norman Barton, Larry Bennett, L. E. Bower, Allen Brooks, Charles Cain, Wayne Christman, Frank Cline, Lafeze Dean, James DeMoss, Jack Easterling, Frank Fisher, Lehman Fisher, Onna Fleming, Isaac Freeman, Jerry Gregg, Fred Gulledge, Curtis Hall, John Humble, Bobby Holt, George Holt, Jase Johnson, Jimmie Johnston, Russell Laningham, J. M. McBeth, Griffin McKay, Tommie Miller, Clifton O'Neal, Emmett Otwell, Percy Pace, Richard Pate, Bobby Ross, Eugene Roswell, Louis Sheppert, Johnnie V. Simpson, Milam Towns, J. E. Tripp, James Wainwright, Edwin Hall, Kyle Wicks, Harry Williams and Robert Williams.

The New Orleans team took advantage of 11 Tennessee errors while banging out 15 hits. Wilson Pollet hung up his seventh victory of the season as he held the visitors to six hits.

JOINS AIR CORPS; TIGERS FORCED TO ALTER GRID PLANS

Local Mentor For Past Eleven Years Will Leave For Duty This Week

Percy Brown, head football and boxing coach at Neville High school since 1931, has been commissioned a first lieutenant in the army air corps and has been ordered to report for training at Miami Beach, Fla., next Friday.

Coach Brown, who spent yesterday at Barksdale field near Shreveport, where he was sworn in as an officer and was supplied with his uniform, plans to leave Monroe about Wednesday. He expects to be stationed at MacDill field near Tampa, Fla., as a physical instructor after receiving his preliminary training.

The air corps acquisition of the Bengal mentor leaves Nexille without any athletic directors. Bill Ruple, former Louisiana Tech athlete, who has been assistant coach here since 1937, resigned at the completion of the last school term. He plans to teach and coach at Baskin High school this year, according to reports.

The Tigers were planning to begin training for their 1942 grid campaign tomorrow, but will have to alter their plans.

E. L. Neville, superintendent of the city school system, yesterday said efforts were being made to rebuild the coaching staff but that as yet nothing definite had been decided.

Coach Brown, who graduated from Louisiana State university in the spring of 1931, spent practically his entire coaching career in Monroe except for his final year at L. S. U., when he coached freshman football.

He came to Monroe as assistant to Paul Neal in 1931 and the following year was made head coach. Neal is now principal at Neville.

Brown's Neville grid teams were never considered powerful but they had fair success and twice, in 1936 and 1940, reached the district Class A playoff. His boxing teams, however, scored repeated successes. His 1934 boxers won the state championship. They were runners-up for state title three times and held district championships from 1933 until 1940 except for one year, 1935, when they finished second in north Louisiana. The Tigers did not box last spring.

GAME TO DECIDE SPOT IN FINALS

Gassers, Seven-Up Softball Teams To Meet Monday Afternoon

United Gas and Seven-Up softball teams of the Twilight league clash tomorrow afternoon at 6:15 o'clock at the Gassers' park in their final and deciding game of the preliminary series for the purpose of determining a playoff finalist. Winner of the game tomorrow will meet Hunt and Whitaker in a five-game title series.

The Gassers won their opener with the Bottlers and figured themselves "in" with a 6-to-4 victory in the second game last Tuesday, but the Bottlers registered a protest which was upheld and then went out Thursday to score a 13-inning victory, 2 to 1, and even the series.

George Fruge, considered the ace hurler of the Twilight circuit for the past few years, will be on the mound tomorrow and will probably be opposed by Ed "Iceman" Guyton who chilled the Gassers with his steady hurling in the 13-inning battle.

Although Fruge is a hard pitcher to beat, the work Guyton turned in in his last time out was plenty satisfactory and another mound duel is anticipated.

Hunt and Whitaker gained the finals Wednesday by eliminating Thom McAn in a series that was forced to go three games when the McAns managed to gain an 8-to-8 tie in their second battle. The Sports won the first game, 3 to 0, and the third resulted in a 7-to-4 victory for Hunt and Whitaker.

Mort Cooper Back In Form After He Discards No. 13 Monkey Suit

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Morton Cooper, the St. Louis Cardinals' speedball pitcher, isn't superstitious, but Catcher Walker Cooper better get to the ball park early the next time his brother is scheduled to work.

One of the few players in baseball to wear uniform No. 13, Morton reached the 13-mark in victories last season and got stuck there. He never did register No. 14 and finished with a record of 13 won and nine lost.

Disregarding the 13-13 coincidence, the big right-hander wore the same uniform number again this year and breezed through one victory after another until he approached 13.

Then it became a struggle. He won only two games in more than a month and finally achieved the jinx No. 13 victory on August 2. Beaten his next two appearances, Cooper decided it was barely possible there was something unlucky about that No. 13 uniform, so he left the shirt in the locker last night and put on No. 14, the old uniform of Gus Mancuso.

It worked like magic. He held the Cincinnati Reds to two hits and won his 14th victory and seventh shutout, 4 to 0.

"I'm not superstitious," Morton said after the game, "but the next time I pitch I'm going to get to the park early and wear Walker's No. 15 monkey suit, if he doesn't beat me to it. And if I put over No. 15, why Ken O'Dea won't have any uniform at all the day I go after No. 16."

ARMY MITTMEN TO RETURN HERE THIS WEEK

TO BATTLE LOCAL TEAM AT NEVILLE STADIUM FRIDAY

Livingston Tank Destroyers Seek Second Win Over Twin City Boxers

The 628th Tank Destroyers of Camp Livingston will send their boxing team to Monroe next Friday night for their second session of the season with Monroe and West Monroe amateurs. The fights will be open-air affairs at the Neville High school stadium.

Sponsors of the show are hoping to card a 10-bout program featuring mittmen from 118 pounds through the heavyweight class.

The Tank Destroyers scored a 3 to 2 victory over the locals here August 7, but the local scrappers, who had only one week of work in preparation for that match, are now in better condition and are expected to turn in much better work Friday.

Ben Davis, former Farmerville High school star, who won by a technical knockout over Johnny Wargo, 145, of Camp Livingston, in their first meeting, is expected to go out after the former University of Pittsburgh battler again this week. Wargo, who was Eastern Intercollegiate champion while battling for Pitt during 1937-38-39, is especially anxious for a return scrap with Davis who is now a Monroe shoe salesman.

Tom King, former state high school boxing champion for Neville High school, was the only other local mittman to win a point for the Monroe team on the previous program. He decisioned Pat Pennetti, native of Bridgeville, Pa., who will be back with Corporal Pat Ryan's outfit this week.

Due to the short time in which the locals had to work out for their season opener only five boys, King, Davis, Gilbert Lee, Lawrence Hunnicutt and Milas Roy, were sent out to meet the invasion. However, the squad has shaped up better and the next card may find Vaughan Payne, "Shorty" Earl, Mac McBroom, Jack Jackson and others in action. McBroom is a New Orleans boy attending the flying school at Northeast Junior college here, and Jackson is a former A. A. U. and Golden Gloves heavyweight scrapper for Union university.

In order to better promote the fight cards which are entirely for the benefit of the United Service organization's recreation fund, a committee has been set up to handle all details on a non-profit basis. It has been pointed out that all persons aiding in putting the fight programs over are giving their services free in order to bolster the soldiers' recreational fund. Local boxers are fighting strictly as amateurs, and the only traveling expenses of the visiting soldier-boxers will be deducted from receipts to go to the USO.

Mayor H. H. Benoit has consented to the use of the Neville stadium, it was announced last night, and a ring will be built on the field this week and on a level with the stadium's box seats.

Committeemen guiding affairs are Walter Kellogg, general chairman; David C. Silvertstein, athletic chairman; A. N. Wixenbaker, co-chairman of athletic committee; George V. Lofton, publicity director, and W. D. Rosa and Guy Corley, publicity.

Herbert Fink will be matchmaker, and Ben Downing is secretary.

It was also announced that all servicemen would be admitted free to the fights. There will also be a flat admission rate of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

SIMONS SEES GOOD YEAR FOR BENGALS

Warns L. S. U. Grid Team May Spring Some Upsets

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Tulane's Coach "Monk" Simons agreed today with the prevailing opinion that Georgia and Mississippi State will be the teams to beat in the Southeastern conference football race, but he warned also that Louisiana State might come up with a surprise.

"Mississippi State looks mighty good and hasn't lost many men to the armed forces," he said. "Georgia has Frank Sinkwich and some other fellow they claim is even better. Maybe so, but I'll take Sinkwich and they can have the other guy.

"L. S. U. has been overlooked in the predictions but they're likely to surprise somebody. From all reports they have one of the best teams in years.

"Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Alabama will be right up there, too."

Of his own team, with a line shot to pieces by losses to the armed forces, Monk mourned, "we'll take plenty of beatings."

SHUT OUT WINNER BY FOUR LENGTHS

Kentucky Derby Champion Is Easy Victor In 73rd Travers Stakes

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—There was so little competition in the 73rd running of the ancient Travers stakes today that Shut Out probably could have run backwards and still won.

At it was, the winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont and the Arlington classic—chief claimant to the throne of the three-year olds—toted 130 pounds, the heaviest load of his career, and waltzed in by four lengths before a crowd of 14,998, biggest of the Saratoga meeting to date.

William Woodward's Trierarch was second, six lengths in front of William Du Pont's Star Beacon, while Buckskin, Shut Out's side-kick from Mrs. Payne Whitney's barn, wound up last in the field of four.

As a horse-race, there was nothing to it once the son of Equipoise got the word from Eddie Arcaro. For the work involved, he was considerably overpaid for the 2 minutes, 4 2-5 seconds of effort he had to put out in this renewal of the nation's oldest horse race. His purse was $17,825. With this amount he boosted his earnings for a year and a half of racing to $253,482 to climb up past Man O'War and Exterminator on the all-time money-winning lists and take a spot among the top 20 breadwinners the world has ever known.

Backed by virtually every one on the race track, the chocolate son of the great chocolate daddy paid off at the absolute minimum of $2.10 to $2. There was no place and show betting.

BEN HOGAN HOLDS LEAD IN TOURNEY

Paces Times-Union Golf Meet By 5 Strokes At End Of 108 Holes

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Ben Hogan eased his blistering golfing pace today but even a third-round two-over par 72 failed to dislodge the slender Texan's five-stroke lead in the $5,000 Times-Union open.

Hogan, who compiled a 64 and 68 in his first two rounds, hit the three-quarter mark in the tourney with a six-under-par 204, five strokes better than the 209 of handsome Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, who shot a great 67 today, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Philadelphia, who turned in a 72.

Three strokes behind McSpaden and Wood were Jimmy Demaret, Detroit; and Dutch Harrison, Camp Hill, Pa.

Bunched in fourth place with 213 came Amateur Ted Bishop, Waltham, Mass.; Jimmy Hines, Lakeville; Ky Laffoon, Miami, Okla.; Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, and Horton Smith, Springfield, Mo.

The field for tomorrow's final round of the 72-hole tourney will be cut to the 60 high pros and the ten high amateurs.

Other scores included Clayton Heafner, Linville, N. C., 141-77—218.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Seventeen hits cascaded from the Memphis Chicks' bats today as the team handed the New Orleans Pelicans a 15 to 6 trouncing.

The Chicks pounced upon three pitchers—Pete Hader and Charlie Brumbeloe tried before Leftfielder Moore moved in in the seventh inning to try his hand—while Frank Veverka bore the brunt of the 14-hit Pelican attack.

LITTLE DIXIE SERIES MAY BE WAR CASUALTY

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The "Little Dixie Series" matching champions of the South Atlantic and Southeastern leagues may become a wartime casualty.

Dr. E. M. Wilder, president of the Sally league, says the 1942 season probably will wind up with the loop's traditional Shaughnessy playoffs, adding: "I doubt seriously that there will be a Class B Dixie championship series."

The series in previous years was a post-season fixture. Last year Macon won the Sally league pennant but lost the Shaughnessy playoffs to Columbia, S. C. Mobile won both the pennant and playoff in the Southeastern. Macon won the "Little Dixie Series" crown.

The Southeastern league ends its current season August 30, while the Sally plays until September 7.

WOMAN CHAMPION RETURNS TO MAT ARENA THIS WEEK

Mildred Burke To Face Gladys Gillam In Main Event At Local Arena

Miss Mildred Burke, world's champion woman wrestler, will be the big attraction at the Monroe Wrestling arena Tuesday night when she meets Miss Gladys Gillam of Birmingham, Ala., in the main event on Promoter Gus Kallio's weekly mat card.

Miss Burke will be making her first appearance here since last April when she conquered Mrs. Elviry Snodgrass, the hill billy gal from Arkansas.

Few women wrestlers have ever been as well received here as Miss Burke, a native of Kansas City who makes a hobby of training horses. She is always a big attraction. She has wrestled here twice in the past year, once last winter at the Ouachita Valley fair grounds and again at the present arena in April and there has never been single wrestling crowds in this area to match the two that turned out for both her appearances.

Miss Gillan, a frizzly-haired, redhead, made her debut here two weeks ago by winning straight falls from Miss Celia Blevins, the Cherokee Indian girl from Oklahoma. The Alabama grappler made quick work of her match with the Indian lass, but she can expect to find Miss Burke a more difficult problem.

A time limit of one hour and fifteen minutes with two falls to win will govern the main attraction.

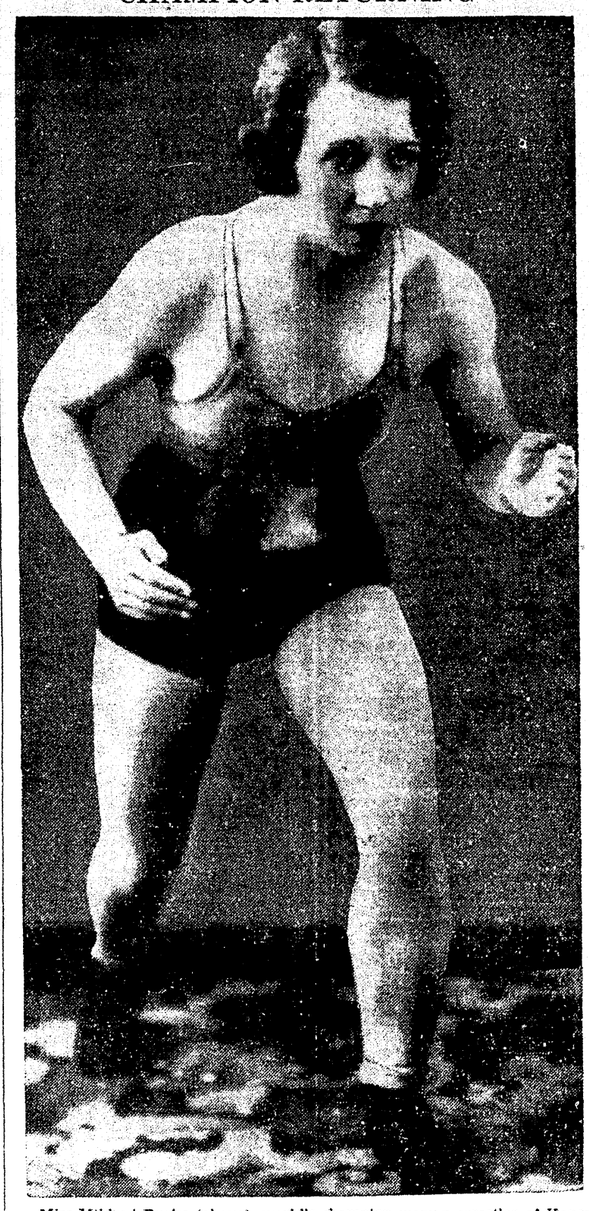
The fans will also be treated with a semi-final of main event proportions featuring Jack Curtis, United States light heavyweight champion, and Mike Fraley, the rowdy from Omaha, Neb.

Curtis last week triumphed over Ali Alliba, the Terrible Turk who had been ruling the ring here all summer, and Fraley, in the semi-final on the same program, beat Les Chapman, former junior light heavyweight champion of the United States.

The Curtis-Fraley scrap will have an hour time limit, two falls to win.

Aldin "Butch" Martin will referee both matches.

CHAMPION RETURNING



Miss Mildred Burke (above), world's champion woman wrestler of Kansas City, Mo., will appear with Miss Gladys Gillam of Birmingham, Ala., in the main event at the Monroe wrestling arena Tuesday night.

TERRY ADMITS DODGERS HAVE RIGHT SMART CLUB

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Bill Terry, general manager of the New York Giants who once wondered if Brooklyn was in the National league, cocked his foot on the back of a hotel chair today and allowed as how the Dodgers had a right smart ball club.

Terry, who came here to look over the fielding and batting wares of one Luis Olmo, of the Richmond Colts, even went so far as to say that Brooklyn had more than a "chance" to whip the New York Yankees if they meet in the world series. "I think the Brooklyn club, if it wins the National league pennant—and it looks like they will do it—has a very good chance to beat the Yankees. Brooklyn has an amazing team, and you have to give them credit.

"They can get a lot out of their players. That town really makes a player hustle," the 44-year-old former manager and first baseman for the Giants chuckled. "Leo Durocher has done a remarkable job handling those players.

"Of course somebody had to get them together, and you've got to give Larry MacPhail credit there. They've got some fine players. Pee Wee Reese can go at short, and Pete Reiser has the earmarks of a great ball player.

"Yes, sir, that's a ball club all right."

GIANTS TAKE TWO

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Giants won a pair of rousing exhibitions from the Phils today, belting two timely home runs to win the first 5 to 3 and going 10 innings to capture the second 4 to 3. As a result, Mel Ott's men tightened their hold on third place in the National league, the Cincinnati Reds being idle.

In the opener Ott smashed his 19th home run with one aboard and Babe Young poled his seventh, also with a mate on base, to sew it up in the eighth inning. Tommy Hughes was the victim of both blasts.

JAMESON CAPTURES WESTERN GOLF PLAY

Becomes Undisputed Woman Golf Champion For '42

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Texas' Betty Jameson became 1942's undisputed champion woman golfer today by winning the Women's Western Golf association's amateur championship to go with the Western Open title she earned in June.

These were the only major women's meets held this year since the U. S. G. A. National was cancelled because of the war.

The San Antonio girl defeated the defending champion, Mrs. Russell Mann of Omaha, Neb., 4 and 2, over the 36-hole route of the Sunset Ridge country club. But she had to wage a thrilling comeback after being two down at the luncheon intermission.

BACK WITH ELEVEN

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Jim Lee Howell, who becomes a former state senator from Arkansas as a result of Tuesday's primaries in that state, joined the New York professional football Giants today and announced his intention of retaining his end job with that club.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16ths-inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was 7 points lower at 18.46 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 18.90; middling 7/8ths-inch average 17.76.

New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Cotton prices faltered after an early attempt to extend the recent gains. Early advances of 25 cents a bale were transformed into small net declines shortly before the close. Increased hedge pressure, liquidation in October and week-end profit taking were the upsetting influences.

Trade price fixing was on a fairly active scale at the outset, with tire mills and other processors being credited with fixing prices on fully 10,000 bales, most of which was centered in the December delivery.

Futures closed 35 cents a bale lower.

Occupation Takes Victory By Neck

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Occupation, fastest working 2-year-old on the American turf, raced to a neck victory in the $69,875 Washington Park futurity today.

The little brown son of Bulldog-Miss Bunting, owned by John Marsch, Chicago contractor, collected the winner's share of $58,475 to stretch his earnings to $117,575. This advanced him so far ahead of all other juveniles that it is apparently certain that he will top the division for the year.

Count Fleet, owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz of New York, was second and the 20-to-1 shot, Blue Swords, owned by A. T. Simmons, Akron, Ohio, was third, six lengths back. Another long shot, Ringmenow, at odds of 99 to 1, finished so close to Blue Swords that a photograph was necessary to separate them.

Occupation, ridden by Jockey Lester Balaski, was caught flat-footed at the start and failed to break with his usual speed. Littletown and Glanceabout immediately shot into the lead, but after running a sixteenth of a mile, Occupation passed them and settled into his stride.

The crowd of 28,000 sent winner to the post at odds of 3 to 5, and he returned $3.20, $2.40 and $2.20. Count Fleet, 9 to 2 second choice, paid off at $3.00 and $2.80, while Blue Swords paid $4.20.

Cold hands indicate tension and anxiety, according to a study made at Cornell and New York hospital.

EXPECT BUSINESS CONCENTRATION

Think Action Necessary To Save Thousands From Bankruptcy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. — (AP) — Some form of concentration of wholesale and retail businesses and distributive facilities, as well as civilian industries, will be necessary before mid-1943 to save thousands of merchants from bankruptcy, informed government officials predicted today.

A tentative plan which would permit hard-pressed stores to close "for the duration," and reopen after the war with a minimum of financial loss, already is under study, it was learned.

Officials in close touch with the general merchandising situation, who declined to be quoted by name, said the overall plan for wholesale and retail concentration now was little more than a "basis for argument" and a recognition of the economic restrictions which will be necessary in a long war.

Under the tentative plan, which draws on experience in England, merchants caught in the "squeeze" of price ceilings, or faced with business failure because of normal competitive conditions and abnormal lack of consumer goods to sell, would be able to turn over their stocks and their customers to a competitor and close their doors.

Their firm names, good-will and investment would be protected, either by mutual agreement and voluntary cooperation, or under terms of congressional legislation.

Thus, for example, several competing stores in a community might find themselves ultimately battling for survival with only about 25 per cent of the goods they normally would have on their shelves. Under government supervision, owners of these stores could agree on one of their number who would continue in business—under the company names of all of his competitors as well as his own.

Stocks of the other stores would be pooled into his inventory and credited to their account—with the owners of the closed stores becoming his wartime partners.

Details as to the financing methods are among the many problems yet to be ironed out. Rents and fixed charges on the closed stores could be paid in part by the company which remains in business and in part by the government, officials suggest.

An alternative would be a private or public insurance plan, comparable to the unemployment compensation system, to which merchants would contribute and from which they would draw the maintenance funds necessary after their stores close. This plan now is being studied in Britain.

Closely allied with the concentration program, officials say, would be a method for prompt composition of debts. Under court supervision, it has been suggested, merchants might work out plans for making small payments to creditors from returns received from the stores which take over their business.

A major factor in the preliminary studies is the manpower situation. Booming war industries will be able to use all of the clerks—as well as the merchants themselves—thrown out of jobs by the program, officials say.

WAR HITS MEN'S WORK CLOTHING

Men's work clothing will have fewer pockets, fewer buttons and buckles, and no unnecessary yardage as a result of war production board order, L-181, effective August 15.

A. T. Dusenbury, manager of the WPB district office in New Orleans, says the order does not interfere with the quality, freedom of action or the utility of the garment, because WPB realizes that work clothes are getting harder wear now than they did before the war and therefore require utmost durability.

Governed by the order are waistband overalls or dungarees, bib-overalls, overall jumpers or coats, one-piece work suits, work pants and work shirts.

According to Mr. Dusenbury WPB estimates the order will result in an annual saving of the following:

1. Approximately 21 million yards of cloth, enough to produce approximately seven million additional garments.
2. Approximately 125 million yards of thread, through elimination of triple stitching.
3. Approximately 150 million buttons and 12 million buckles.
4. More than one-fourth of the normal shipping space in shipping work shirts, since the order prohibits shipping them in boxes.

NEW CLUB FOREST OPENS THURSDAY

The formal opening of the New Club Forest next Thursday night was announced yesterday by W. C. Singley, new manager of the club.

Mr. Singley said facilities of the club would be available for officers and civilians only. The formal opening will start at 8 p.m. Thursday and bingo, a regular nightly feature of the club, will start at 9:30 o'clock. A bar and cocktail lounge is being installed.

"We now have a club for selected clientele of this area where one can bring his wife or family without the least fear of meeting with any unpleasant difficulties or with any undesirable personalities," Mr. Singley said. "Only those who can conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen will be admitted."

BATHING BEAUTY EVENT SLATED

Entrants Sought For Labor Day Contest In Alexandria

The office of Mayor H. H. Benoit has received information of the bathing beauty contest to be held in Alexandria on Labor day which is to be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce there. The mayor is instructed that if any young woman in Monroe is a likely candidate that it will do much to advertise the city if she will enter the contest.

As many contestants as may desire can enter, and entrants can enter as individuals or as those sponsored by some group or by the municipality.

The rules of the contest state that minimum age is 16 years, with no maximum limit. Entrance fee is $5 paid in advance not later than August 31. The contestant must appear in bathing suit at the Alexandria baseball park, Monday, September 7 at 7:30 p.m.

The first prize winner will receive a $100 war bond; second prize, $50 war bond; third prize, $25 war bond. Five dollars in war stamps will be given each of the next five who receive honorable mention.

Registrations, it is explained, should be made through the Chamber of Commerce in Alexandria.

THE MAYOR GETS A PLEASANT SURPRISE

A meter which tests the mileage remaining in automobile tires was introduced here and Mayor Harvey H. Benoit was the first "customer." The mayor, who estimated that there were 15,000 miles left in his tires, was pleasantly surprised to learn that the meter showed he could travel 39,500 more miles by careful driving.

THEY'RE OLD

The geysers and steaming pools of Yellowstone National park are a hangover from the time millions of years ago when all the earth's area broiled over subterranean fires.

NEW TIRE TEST IS INTRODUCED HERE

Mayor Benoit Learns He Has Many More Miles In Tires Than He Thought

Mayor H. H. Benoit has 24,500 miles more in his set of tires than he had estimated. Mayor Benoit took part in a public test held at Saul Adler's of a new method to evaluate the life of a set of tires, as developed by Esso Marketers. The method, used in conjunction with a radically new tire care program, may give America much more mileage than had been considered possible, according to tire experts. The Esso program was developed because the war made it imperative that tires be made to last as long as possible.

In making the test Esso representatives first measured the depth of the tread on Mayor Benoit's tires, using a tire tread depth gauge, originally developed by the office of price administration. The figures were then worked out on the Tire Life Indicator —a mechanical device which quickly computes a complex set of mathematical calculations, and arrives at maximum mileage possible for a set of tires. Mayor Benoit's maximum mileage was 39,500 miles.

Details of the new tire care program that will deliver the maximum mileage were then revealed. It consists basically of sound driving, good tire care, and a new switching program that calls for tires to be changed every 2,500 miles. In making these recommendations, Esso representatives pointed out that 38 per cent of all tire wear occurs on the right rear tire, 28 per cent on left rear, 19 per cent on right front, and 14 per cent on left front. Under the new system, approved by leading automotive engineers and tire experts, tires are shifted not according to rote, but in a mathematically precise arrangement designed to spread wear over all tires. In pointing out the engineering virtues of the new switching program, Mr. McBride said: "The usual tire switching recommendations call for a 5,000 mile change. But if one of the motorist's tires has an estimated mileage of only 4,000 miles, this won't work. Under the new scientific program, switching and other tire care rules are carried out in accordance with reason, not hope."

BAPTISTS OFF FOR CAMP DOWN STATE

Baptists from the Twin Cities, in common with those from all over the state, will leave early Monday for Mandeville to attend the annual encampment. A bus will leave the First Baptist church here Monday at 6:30 p.m. and it is expected to fill this vehicle with those who are to attend the camp.

The bus fare and other expenses are made exceptionally low, the round trip fare is but $5 and the cost of the board and accommodations at camp will be but $12.50 for 10 days.

There is still opportunity to sign up for the trip. Mrs. Clara Seaman, phone 2860-W is the proper person to receive the registration.

MONROE FIREMEN ANSWER 3 CALLS

Monroe firemen answered three fire calls and made a miscellaneous run yesterday but only got to extinguish one fire, a grass blaze at 904 Alabama street.

They were summoned to put out a fire in an automobile at 231 South Grand street but the blaze had already been extinguished before their arrival. The car was reported owned by W. J. Lowe, resident of Columbia road. They were called to another automobile fire in the 700 block of DeSiard street, but when they arrived the owner had driven off.

Earlier in the morning, however, they put in an hour's work pumping water out of the boiler room at St. Francis sanitarium. A water pipe was said to have burst, flooding the room.

113 NEGROES TO GET DRAFT EXAMINATION

Selective Service board No. 1 has ordered 113 negro registrants to report to the second floor of the Monroe city hall Tuesday night at 6 p. m. for physical examination, it was announced Saturday.

Notification of the order to report has been mailed each registrant and the importance of reporting on time has been stressed, it was said. Registrants are required by law to report when ordered unless excused for valid reasons.

PLAYGROUNDS IN CITY CONCLUDE

Summer Period Ends With Colorful Program On Friday Night

A colorful final of the Monroe municipal playgrounds was held on the campus of Barkdull Faulk school, Friday at 7 p.m. A large number of adults, parents and friends of the boys and girls from the five playgrounds here and the children themselves formed the audience. The rose arbor at the north end of the campus formed the background for the rustic stage.

The flag ceremony, comprising the lowering of Old Glory, was the first number on the program after which the city-wide elementary band, directed by Carl Fontana rendered six selections as follows: (a) "Basketball Team"; (b) "Lead on March"; (c) "Football Squad"; (d) "Assembly Hour"; (e) "Our School"; (f) "America."

The most colorful part of the program was contained in the dances which were executed by the children in costumes which they had themselves created, in a riot of color and design.

First came the Flag Drill by the Atkinson playground group after which the Dutch dance was given by Sherrouse playground youngsters. The American folk dance, "Ch! Susanna," was by the children of Lida Benton school with "Dance of Greeting" by Georgia Tucker school. This same group also executed in clever manner "Kinderpolks" dance, and the Mexican dance.

Of special interest was the Inca snake dance by the Barkdull Faulk playground group. They were attired in grotesque Indian costumes and carried a snake that was more than 10 feet long and which was stuffed for the occasion.

Group singing next followed being led by Miss Eleona Brinsmade and Miss Geneve Castles.

Colored views of the Victory parade and of the recent field day completed the evening's performance.

Those familiar with recreation work stated that this summer's program has been one of the best ever attempted here. It was directed by Mrs. Jessie Granberry, who earlier in the day had been awarded a gift by fellow workers in recognition of her efforts.

LIVE FOR AMERICA
NOT ON AMERICA
A Battle Is Raging

Today—right now—in the Pacific near the Solomon Islands—American boys are engaged in a life and death struggle.

Success or failure may depend on the foresight of their preparation—the caliber and quantity of their arms—the number of ships—planes—the reinforcements available—all things that your congress should have foreseen and provided for years ago.

Did Your Present Congressman Measure Up?

Was he prepared mentally and psycologically? Does he still want to scrap the army and navy? How many American boys—our boys—will pay with their lives for his folly?

Let's get down to facts—This is a global war—It's not in our backyards but it can be if we don't rid congress of its political hacks.

A battle is raging! According to news reports we have lost several ships. Others have been damaged. God alone knows how many men have been lost, some of them no doubt from northeast Louisiana.

If your Congressman, Newt V. Mills, had measured up, had had the foresight, had had the statesmanlike ability, had been a real patriotic American instead of a petty politician, he might have helped to avert this loss of men and blood.

I APPEAL TO THE MOTHERS, FATHERS, SISTERS, BROTHERS, RELATIVES AND FRIENDS OF THESE BOYS, OUR BOYS, IN THE SERVICE TO REPUDIATE NEWT V. MILLS ON HIS UN-AMERICAN UNPREPAREDNESS STAND.

Miss Adelaide Parker Is Honoree At Reception In W. B. Inabnet Gardens

Popular Bride-Elect Given Many Parties

Week Of Affairs Climaxed By Party In Beautiful Setting At Inabnet Home

The lovely cool gardens of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Inabnet made an idyllic setting for a party, honoring Miss Adelaide Parker, a popular bride-elect, Friday, August 14, from 5 to 7 o'clock. In a natural spot of beauty, where giant oaks spread their moss covered branches along meandering Bayou DeSiard, the hostess, always gracious, extended courtesies to about a hundred persons who enjoyed this special occasion.

It was just the time of day for friends to gather in this delightful place, almost fairylike in its beauty. The sloping green lawn, with its background of tall shrubbery, was broken by splashes of color from old fashioned flowers. Guests stood in groups to chat or sat in garden chairs to exchange greetings.

Receiving with Mrs. Inabnet, who wore aquamarine organza with a corsage of pink and yellow tube roses, was Miss Parker, in dainty white chiffon, with closely fitting bodice and full skirt of lace ruffles with which she wore a corsage of red and white tube roses; Mrs. Cecile Parker, mother of the honoree, wearing purple and cerise crepe with cerise lilies, and Misses Mary Lavinia Inabnet, Roberta Neel and Dottie White, all in billowy summer frocks.

The linen-covered tea table, artistic in its arrangement, held a miniature bride and groom. White satin ribbons extended from the little couple to each corner of the table that held a mirrored plaque reflecting hearts of pink altheas. Iced lime frappe was served from a crystal bowl, and small containers held mints in the shape of wedding rings. A variety of confections on large crystal trays were passed among the guests. Those who poured were Mrs. C. E. McKenzie in a becoming old-fashioned blue taffeta frock with which she wore antique jewelry, Mrs. R. C. Sparks in white crepe with silver sequins and Mrs. J. H. Thatcher wearing green lace.

Assisting in serving were girls in long bouffant frocks of net, organdy and chiffon. The group included Misses Veronica Wilds, Bennie Hughes, Carolyn Husted, Barbara McKenzie, Betty Middleton and Frances Raby.

The week has been filled with a variety of courtesies for Miss Parker. Tuesday's calendar held a luncheon at the Frances hotel with Misses Veronica Wilds, Carolyn Husted and Barbara McKenzie as hostesses, and Miss Frances Raby's lingerie shower that evening. Carrying out a green and white color scheme, the dainty gifts were presented in a hope chest wrapped in tissue of those colors.

Mrs. R. C. Sparks entertained with a luncheon at the Frances Hotel Wednesday, and Miss Robertine Rhymes had a group for bridge and luncheon Thursday at her home near Alto. That evening in the home of Miss Betty Middleton, she and Miss Monica Liles held open house from 7 to 9 o'clock. Receiving with Miss Middleton, who wore pale gold crepe with red carnation corsage, and Miss Liles, in navy chiffon with pink carnation corsage, were Miss Adelaide Parker, in becoming black sheer with corsage of African daisies, and her mother, Mrs. Cecile Parker in blue and white sheer print with white daisy corsage.

Roses were used throughout the reception suit. The tea table, with lace cover, was centered with a bowl of red roses. Lighted candles cast a soft glow over the table where a red, white and blue color scheme was used. Frosted drinks, sandwiches, confections and nuts were served.

The hostesses' gift to Miss Parker was eight bread and butter plates in Regent's Park Rose pattern.

Those who called during the evening included Misses Virginia Earle Kersh, Mary Louise Fudickar, Margaret Butler, Jo Ann Guerriero, Evelyn Jane Smith, Patsy Slack, Annie Lee Russell, Barbara McKenzie, Florence Fluker, Eunice Hayes, Martha Clayton Kilpatrick, Dorothy Graves, Nan Buckner, Marjorie Farmer, Juanita Morris, Marilyn Marshall, Mary Lavinia Inabnet, Carolyn Husted, Dottie White, Frances Raby, Veronica Wilds, Jean Moriority, Roberta Neel, Jean Graves, Gay Noe, Jerry Kelso, Nell DeLee, Mabel Cole, Gloria Major, Jean Terzia, Barbara Faulk, Mary Stuart Kellogg, Merilyn Bush, Jena Jackson, Mildred Keller, Martha Ann Moore, Nora Virginia Abernathy, Betty Reily.

Robertine Rhymes, Jean Hale, Martha Jane Hill, Ellen Hale, Ada Ellis Girault, Sue Mary Moore, Anne Fulson, Kathleen Myers, "Snooky" McHenry, Betty Lou Seamon, Dody Hart, Mary Ann Wilds and Mesdames Jimmy Wyatt, J. Miss Virginia Cox And Cecil Guinn To Marry

Of paramount social interest is the announcement made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Virginia Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Shannon of Monroe, and Mr. Cecil C. Circulation Of Books Reaches Record Figure

During the month of July the Monroe and West Monroe libraries circulated 9,096 books and periodicals—the largest circulation in the history of the library. With a collection of 20,299 volumes, the library could circulate even more books each month. A total of 8,235 borrowers are now registered at the library. Of these registrants many are new ones whose families are connected with the ordinance plant at Sterlington and the A. A. F. navigation school in Monroe.

Since the opening of the West Monroe branch on October 8, 1941, the circulation has grown from 550 books and periodicals a month to a circulation of 2,267 each month, with a registration of 931 borrowers.

A recent service offered by the libraries that is proving popular with patrons is the map series, "World News of the Week." Places in the news are clearly marked and a brief statement of events is given. The service includes short descriptions of the events and pictures of persons in the news.

To aid citizens in their grasp of world condition, the war information center has on file pamphlets and publications of the office of civilian defense, the office of facts and figures and other government defense agencies.

Since public curiosity about Russia and the Russians is particularly keen today, there is a steady demand for books in that field. Noteworthy ones now available are: "The Voice of Fighting Russia," edited by Zacharoff; "Russians Don't Surrender," Alexander Poliakov; "Moscow War Diary," Alexander Werth; "Kremlin and the People," W. Duranty; "Workers Before and After Lenin," Gordon; "I Write as I Please," Will Duranty, and "Mission to Moscow," J. E. Davies.

Renewed interest in the great Russian novels is seen in recent requests for Dostroevski's "Crime and Punishment," Tolstoy's "War and Peace" and "And Quiet Flows the Don" and "The Don Flows Home to the Sea," by Mikhail Sholokhov.

Kinnison of West Monroe, became the bride of Mr. Edward Blackmon of Monroe at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, August 8, in the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. T. Hastings, with Rev. Hastings officiating. Only immediate members of the families and close friends were present.

The bridal couple exchanged vows before an improvised altar of flowers and greenery. The bride's attendant was Miss Joyce Jasper, who wore rose silk crepe with navy blue Dutch hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white gladioli. Mr. Blackmon was attended by Mr. Glenn Beadles.

The bride wore a two-piece suit of light blue crepe with navy blue accessories. Her hat was a becoming model of pink straw with hip-length veil, and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. D. R. Richardson of Jacksonville, Texas, sang "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Gibson, who also played the wedding march.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. On a lace-covered table was the wedding cake of two tiers, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Paul Blackmon, sister-in-law of the groom, and Miss Joyce Jasper presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Kinnison and Miss Beatrice Kinnison assisted in serving. Local Girls Participate In Waldemar Activities

Mexican Dinner And Field Day Are Outstanding Events At Kerrville Camp

At Camp Waldemar, near Kerrville, Tex., where the lofty cypress trees meet in shadowy archways that tower skyward and the Guadalupe river meanders for miles through the mountains, girls from Monroe and all parts of the country have gathered for six weeks of fun and frolic. There's a thrill in every inch of this romantic, sun-splashed land for Jerry and Jo Ann Biedenharn, Ann Brown, Ann Humphries, Betty Sue Jones, Cornelia McHenry, Betty Sue Shotwell, Lee Slagle, Louise Tisdale, and Jessie Lee Touchstone.

For several weeks they have been participating in numerous land and water activities, such as swimming, tennis, archery, riflery, golf, horseback riding canoeing, badminton, ping pong, art, games and other interesting things.

Gaiety was evidenced in great measure at the Mexican dinner honoring these and other campers from all parts of the United States who are enjoying this brief vacation period. Voluminous skirts of intricate needlework, with black net trimmings, large fancy silk or satin kerchiefs fastened at wrist and waist, and black, white and colorful mantillas flowing from heads and shoulders gave the banquet all the color and charm of a Mexican fiesta.

Field day was another big occasion for these fun-loving girls, and once more the Tejas successfully withstood the determined assaults of increasingly strong Comanche opposition at this unique camp where the two friendly tribes waged merry turf and aquatic battles for top honors and points toward the tribal plaque to be awarded at the close of the term. Camp-wide attention was focused on Jessie Lee Touchstone, the Tejas tribal leader, as she exhibited unusual ability on the tennis court and won numerous points for her tribe. Jessie Lee was chosen leader because of her splendid record of achievement and service to the camp.

Betty Sue Jones won applause for her splendid work at the archery targets and also in the ping pong contests. Taking the spotlight in the various games in which they participated were Jo Ann Biedenharn, Ann Humphries and Lee Slagle. Other colorful performers, whose support made the day a success, were Ann Brown, Cornelia McHenry, Betty Sue Shotwell and Louise Tisdale. Proving herself to be quite an equestrienne in horseback riding events was Jerry Biedenharn.

Attractions for that day were contests in archery, riflery, golf, swimming, canoeing, fencing, games and horseback riding.

New Clare Tree Major Plays Scheduled Here

Parker Memorial Class Of First Methodist Church To Sponsor Local Series

For several years the Clare Tree Major plays have been brought to Monroe by various organizations that have realized the opportunity of providing children of the Twin Cities with this high type of children's theater entertainment. Because the First Methodist church building fund holds primary interest among the classes, the Parker Memorial class accepted the challenge to sponsor these plays this year. The work will be directed by Mrs. W. E. Sandel, chairman, with Mrs. Ray Rhymes and Mrs. Earl Kersh as vice co-chairmen. A set-up committee to assist them in organizing the class for effective work, includes Mrs. Zell Smith and Misses Julia Wossman, Annie Butler, and Elizabeth Langford.

Clare Tree Major has organized a new type of theater school to open in October. Since the school is limited to 100 students, and the professional Children's Theater companies play from coast to coast and from the Gulf to Canada, registration will be restricted in each town by the quality of those who make application. The Children's Theater home office is in Chappaqua, N. Y., where registrations are being received.

There probably will be special classes in production, direction, and dramatization of plays for teachers. Radio technique, with frequent broadcasting from the local station, also is a feature.

The school will operate on a non-profit making charter granted by the New York state department of education.

Next season the Children's Theater will be seen in Monroe in several productions, including "Beauty and the Beast," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "The Captive Maid of Old Carlisle," and "Hansel and Gretel."

The following is taken from a report made by Mrs. Major regarding the new type of Clare Tree Major theater school:

"The Westchester Playhouse, which Vincent Price, Mildred Natwick, Ethel Barrymore, Henry Fonda, Margaret Sullavan, Peggy Wood, and many other noted performers have made famous, with its studios and workshops, just outside New York City, will house the school, and every student will come under the personal direction of its founder, Clare Tree Major.

"The difference between this school and any other lies in the fact that it is, we are told, the only theater school directed by an active theater producer, and one who therefore can, and intends to employ its graduates.

"Graduation covers a two-year course. Another difference between this and other schools is that from 15 to 20 of the most talented students who qualify for the second term will enter a scholarship class which will be especially trained for and given work in the Children's Theater companies the following year.

"The faculty comprises active professional theater folk. Regular performances will be given weekly in the theater, students playing with the faculty in all productions. Student performances by the first year group will also be given regularly. Clare Tree Major is an honor graduate of the Royal academy in London and for several years managed her own very successful school of the theater in the Princess theater in New York. Many of her graduates are leading people in the movies and on Broadway. The scarcity of well trained young people, and the exceptional demands for good speech and acting technique in the difficult task of playing for children gives the impetus for reestablishing the school which Mrs. Major disbanded in order to give her full attention to the building of the Theater for Children.

"The curriculum will cover dancing, pantomine, speech, and vocal interpretation, as well as the most complete training in every phase of play production and acting. Constant association and acting with professional actors and actresses is a high point in the training system, each member of the directing staff being selected for some special qualification for his particular phase of theater art. Broadway managers and talent scouts will be guests for the second year productions."

KAPPA DELTA LEADERS . . .

Kappa Delta Members Are Entertained Here

En route to their camp on Caney lake near Minden, La., for a three-day house party, Kappa Delta members from Baton Rouge were entertained by local sorority sisters at a three-course luncheon Thursday at the Frances hotel. About forty persons were present.

To emphasize informality and good fellowship, at the beginning of the meal each member was asked to give her name and place of residence. Mrs. Ray Rhymes, representing the alumnae, presided.

On the table was an attractive centerpiece of white daisies and fern that carried out the colors of the sorority. At the luncheon period plans for next year were discussed and an enjoyable program of music was given. Miss June Hutchinson of Baton Rouge, and Miss Beth Rinehart, of Monroe who represented the Louisiana Tech chapter, sang several Kappa Delta songs, after which the entire group joined in singing several sorority numbers. As a custom of old, they ended the program with the K. D. marching song that always is used on festive occasions.

A special guest from Baton Rouge was Miss Bessie Lee Baynard, president of the L. S. U. chapter, who wore a sports model of brown and yellow with brown straw hat and accessories of that color. Others from Epsilon chapter at the university who attended the luncheon were Misses Violet Amis, Marian Barnett, Emogene Odom, Eleanor Fauver, Zaidee Calhoun, Jane Hutchinson, Louise Doherty, Jane Marritt, and Evelyn Jarrell.

Active members of Monroe and towns nearby are Misses Jean Hale, Mabel Cole, Martha Jane Hill, Carolyn Oliver, Marillyn Marshall, Patsy Slack, Mildred Keller, Nora Virginia Abernathy, Lelia Dean Frazier, Florence Fluker, Magdalen Ammon, Jena Jackson, Ann Atkins, Monica Liles, Hortense Peck, Carolyn Royce, Lucille Pugh, Evelyn Jarrell, Beth Rinehart, and Mrs. Bitsy McHenry Nadler.

Last year the university chapter won special recognition as the highest scholastic rating sorority on the campus for which it was presented a silver loving cup. From its group was selected the Darling of L. S. U., Miss Monica Liles of Bastrop, and coed vice-president, Miss Lelia Dean Frazier of West Monroe.

Junior Knitters Hold Year's-End Luncheon

The Junior Knitters celebrated the end of their first year's work with a four-course luncheon Wednesday noon in the Mirror room of the Frances hotel.

Mrs. Leon Dennis introduced Mrs. Willys Hopkins, who entertained the club with two piano solos, "Noontide," by Rudolph Friml. and "Rigaudon," by Edward McDowell. Mrs. Zell Smith gave a very entertaining review of the life of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, often called the most interesting woman of our day. Madame Kai-shek, wife of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China, came to the United States at the age of 10, where she remained in school until she was 19. The program ended with the club singing in unison, "God Bless America."

Mrs. A. M. Kite announced that the club had turned in 477 articles to the Red Cross in the last year. Mrs. P. C. Shelton tendered her resignation as she is leaving to make her home in Fort Worth, Texas.

The following members and guests attended the luncheon: Mesdames Joe Bennett, Clyde Blanchard, Lamar Ratcliff, W. E. Andrews, E. C. Roberson, R. L. Rhodes, T. F. Wilson, Leon Dennis, A. R. Bauerfind, W. O. Webb, L. P. Craighead, P. C. Shelton, Vernon Riddick, A. M. Kite, Gene Demmary, Zell Smith, Robert Cowden, Willys Hopkins, Nell Grigsby and Misses Lucille Jones and Irene Quinn Renaud.

Monroe Women Go To Auxiliary Convention

Mrs. Mamie C. Arnette, department president of the Louisiana Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, left Monroe August 14, for Cleveland, O., to attend the national convention scheduled August 16-20. She will represent Louisiana in all activities at the meeting, including massing of the colors and the grand military ball. She also will preside at the Louisiana table at the all-state dinner in the banquet hall of the Cleveland Hotel.

The convention this year is of special interest to members in southern organizations as the national president is a southern woman, having been born and reared in Memphis, Tenn. Of particular concern to Louisiana members is the endorsement of a past president for a national office. Mrs. Lucy Kendall Favrot of Baton Rouge, La., will be nominated by the Louisiana delegation. Mrs. Favrot is an outstanding leader in the organization, having done splendid work in hospitalization and at the leper colony at Carville, La.

Making Dolls Is Hobby Of Mrs. Orrie C. Rust

Most Interesting Collection Exhibited By Barkdull Faulk School Teacher

One should never outgrow the stage where playing with dolls seems fun. This is the philosophy of Mrs. Orrie C. Rust, teacher at the Barkdull Faulk elementary school of Monroe. She can't ever recall a time when this hobby had a dull moment. Instead, the interest in dolls has grown through the years, and now she spends hours and hours making them and designing their costumes.

She has been making these little creatures for two years and now the collection has grown to about sixty. No one ever had a more satisfying hobby she declares. It makes an ideal outlet for the things she likes—to work with her hands, to give vent to the interest which she has had in folk and period costumes.

As a teacher, Mrs. Rust likes to interest children in good literature. First she made only foreign dolls; then she had the idea of reproducing characters from childrens' classics. "I've made about twenty of the best loved book characters," she says. Next she plans to make some historical dolls, beginning with Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh.

They are really very patriotic people because they are made of things that are usually thrown away—old stockings and underwear, and scraps of cloth, lace, fur, felt, in fact almost anything that lands in the rag bag. She spent an afternoon making each one, except the Sioux chief. It took a whole day to make his war bonnet, another to make the beaded jacket, and another to make the rest of him. But he is a great favorite of hers.

Mrs. Rust admits that she likes to hear people say, "What fun you must have had making them." But she is annoyed when they say, "What patience you must have." Her favorite compliment is one she overheard in the school library one day, while the dolls were on display during book week. A little boy remarked that they didn't have their names on them. Another little boy told him, "Boy, they don't need no names if you've read the book. You know who they are."

One should see Mrs. Rust's dolls in reality to appreciate her fine workmanship and the exquisite detail which she has used in costuming them. There is the coloring too that is a chief attraction.

During the Louisiana State Library convention in Monroe this spring many of these interesting little people were used on the table at the Book dinner, a highlight of the meeting. In the June issue of "Louisiana—Education in Wartime" appears a picture of Little Black Sambo who seems to have just stepped from the pages of Helen Bannerman's book to greet young readers.

Miss Susan Brown And Ensign Mitchell Wed

Prominent Couple Married In Impressive Ceremony At Lake Providence Church

A wedding of social prominence and claiming the interest throughout the midsouth was that of Miss Susan Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hanna Brown of Lake Providence, La., and Ensign William Barry Mitchell of Transylvania, La. The marriage was solemnized at Grace Episcopal church at Lake Providence, Saturday evening, July 25, at 8 o'clock, with Rev. Dean Maurer, rector, reading the impressive ceremony.

The church was attractively decorated in white and green, with white gladioli banked upon the altar and interspersed among the tapers which gleamed from brass candelabra. Myriads of candles were used for the ceremony. They were placed on graduated standards grouped around the choir stalls and chancel, in windows between garlands of summer greenery and on standards, entertwined with ivy, along the aisle.

Mrs. R. S. Guenard, presiding at the console, accompanied Miss Katherine Adams as she sang "Ave Maria," prior to the entrance of the bridal party. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" heralded the approach of the bride and her attendants. "Love's Old Sweet Song" was played softly during the exchange of vows and the march from Lohengrin was played for the recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of petal pink satin, with closely fitting bodice and flowing train. The point lace veil, fitted to a coronet and cascaded to the shoulder, fell into a full panel the length of the skirt train. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses, centered with orchids and sprayed with lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants wore identical models of white, with bodice of faille taffeta fitted over bouffant skirts in peplum style. Each wore a string of pearls. In their hair were upright bows of grosgrain ribbon centered with tiny pink flowers, with the ribbons falling in double width over the back of the head to the full length of the skirts.

Bouquets of double gladioli in palmetto fan shape, with streamers of matching colors, were carried. Mrs. Mark H. Brown, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride who was her maid-of-honor, used orchid, Miss Peggy Dessomes Stinson, maid-of-honor, chose pink, and Mrs. John Maxwell, sister of the groom, Mrs. George Flippin, Mrs. F. S. Regenold, and Mrs. F. H. Schneider, Jr., carried picardy.

Sara Ann Schneider, the little flower girl, wore a floor length gown with lace bodice and full net skirt, as she scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

All in summer tailleur, the groom and his best man, Ensign Sidney Chaffe Guenard, wore the full dress uniform of their rank as did Lieutenants John Maxwell, Billy Bray, Billy Morris, and Fred S. Regenold, who served as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Ford Land, in aqua chiffon with a corsage of pink althea, and Mrs. Leon Minsky, in blue lace with a corsage of talisman roses, presided at the punch bowl. Receiving guests were Miss Buddy Mitchell in blue net, Mrs. Mitchell in white chiffon with shirred bodice and circular skirt with a corsage of orchid asters, and Mrs. Brown in turquoise blue with a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was lovely with an attractive decoration of stephanotis and blue lilies of the Nile. The wedding cake of two tiers, was centered with a crystal vase overflowing with pink rose buds and miniature flags set in each loop of the sprays with which it was embossed. Tapers burned in the candelabra at either end and reflected the entire setting on the mirrored plateau that served as a base for the cake.

Among the out-of-town guests, who attended the wedding, were Miss Peggy Dessomes Stinson, Mrs. O. M. Mitchell, Mrs. George Flippin, Mr. and Mrs. David Tomilson, all of Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. H. C. METHODISTS TO RAISE FUNDS

Anticipate That Total Of $40-000 Will Be Realized Sunday

Today will be a most important one at the First Methodist church as August 16 is announced, on a huge thermometer in the church auditorium, as the time when there should be received a total of $40,000 for the erection of the new educational building. Later this year the thermometer is supposed to reach a total of $50,000 which will mean that two-thirds of the $75,000 which the building is expected to cost, will have been raised.

The end of 1943 is expected to see the whole sum in cash realized and the structure will be erected as soon thereafter as wartime conditions will permit.

All members of the church congregation and other friends are urged to hand in their money, most of which will be in the nature of war stamps and bonds which are received as cash today.

It is expected that some real sacrificial effort will be required to raise the money but the end sought is believed to fully repay all self-denials that may be required. Those in charge of the campaign expressed the belief Saturday that the sum anticipated will be raised today.

• SERIAL STORY

LUCKY PENNY

BY GLORIA KAYE

COPYRIGHT, 1942, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER X

On winged feet, Penny raced toward the office. All around her lights were beginning to pop into windows. Hastily dressed householders poured out of their homes, and soon a stream of people was rushing to the scene.

The Kirktown fire department had speedily roused itself. She heard the siren as the engine sped along Central avenue. It seemed to her that hours had passed before she reached the Courier office.

She searched the faces at the scene of the fire. An eternity ended when she saw Jim—safe. "Thank heaven," she said, fervently. "Thank heaven Jim's all right."

His face was a study in bitter anger. His lips were tight, his head hunched low between his broad shoulders. Jim's fists were so tightly clenched that his knuckles showed white. Penny pressed back tears. Then anger overwhelmed all other emotions. She shared Jim's bitterness.

She walked over to him, looked up into his eyes. She offered him comfort without saying a word.

"Let's go, Penny," he said, finally. They pushed their way through the crowd, toward Jim's car. Penny shivered, despite the warmth of the night. Jim peeled off his coat and wrapped it around her shoulders.

"This is it, Penny," Jim said. "Castro has asked for a showdown. He'll know he's been in a fight before I'm finished."

"Please, Jim," she pleaded. "Please, for my sake, don't do anything you'll regret. I know what you're thinking. I know Castro has it coming to him. There are other ways. Don't spoil it now."

Jim's smile was bitter. "A lot of pleople have tried appeasement. It doesn't work. You can't talk peace with a guy who has a gun stuck in your ribs. This is war, Penny. It's time to give Castro the only kind of treatment he understands."

"I know, Jim," she said. "I feel the same way. Castro is going to get just the kind of treatment he's entitled to. Listen to me, Jim. I want you to hear my plan, now."

Rapidly, the words tumbling swiftly out, she presented her idea to Jim. As he listened, she watched the changing light in his eyes.

"Penny," he enthused, "you're a genius. Boy! Wait until they see our paper this week. Your stunt will work! Why, Castro has walked right into our arms."

Excitedly, he planned with her.

"First, we have to see how much damage has been done to the plant. If we can't print ourselves, I'll take the Courier into the city. I have a friend who'll be tickled pink to help me out. I'll get Lou MacDonald lined up. This is sensational!"

Jim couldn't stay depressed after that.

"I'll take you home, Penny. You need some rest. Meanwhile I'll check in with the fire department. Besides, I'll have to get a story on the fire. I want to find some eye-witnesses. I hope no one was hurt. A lot of windows were smashed by the blast."

That was like Jim. He had already forgotten his own losses in the excitement of getting a story and in the worry over losses that others might have suffered.

"Please take care of yourself, Jim," she said. "You need some rest, too, and tomorrow is going to be an especially tough day."

"Don't worry about me, Penny. I thrive on this sort of thing," Jim replied. "Besides, every hour I work tonight brings me that much closer to settling accounts with Castro."

His brakes squealed as he tortured them to a stop in front of Penny's door.

"Good night," he said. "Don't worry about anything. I'll see you in the morning."

"Good night, Jim," she said, reluctantly. "Take it easy."

Quiet, except for the sounds of activity in the mill yards, had already descended over Kirktown. She heard the distant foghorn voice of the diesel-engined limited as it rounded the bend.

Penny knew that if Midge had returned a light would be shining in the window. She knew that Midge would have much to say and many questions to ask. She was glad the house was dark.

At the door, she stopped, listening. She thought she heard the faint sound of footsteps, speeding lightly away. She sensed, rather than saw, a shadow fading away.

Fumbling for her key, Penny at first didn't see the note tacked on the door. When she did notice the ragged slip of paper, a chill rushed through her.

Cautiously, she unfolded the message. In big red letters, hastily scribbled, Castro had delivered his warning.

"Shut up—or else. Take a tip from us. Leave town tonight."

When Penny arrived at the Courier office next morning, Jim was in overalls. The sun filtered through the broken basement window.

"Hello, Penny," Jim greeted happily. "Watch your step there. Some of the nails are pretty rusty."

"Good morning, Jim," Penny answered, as cheerfully as she could. Hours before she had determined that no note of anxiety would penetrate her voice.

"The damage isn't as bad as I thought it would be," said Jim. "The office got the worst of it. It'll take more than a bomb to blow up that old press. And our linotype has gone through worse than a little fire. The boys were down as soon as the firemen would let them in. We have most of the mess cleaned up already."

Penny looked over the damaged room critically. Desks and counter were shattered splinters. Burned papers soaked with water and chemicals were piled in a corner, ceiling high. She wondered if the odor would ever leave the building.

"You can't work here today, Jim," she observed.

"We don't have to," he answered cheerily. "We have a real office now. The bank is going to let us use their conference room. It's a lucky thing Castro didn't pick Thursday for his little game. We'll have plenty of time to clean up before we go to press."

"Jim," Penny said, "I know I'll just be in your way today. Do you mind if I take the day off?"

"I was just going to suggest that myself," said Jim. "Go out and have a good time. We'll be ready for work by tomorrow."

When Penny reached street level, she noticed two men, apparently absorbed in conversation, at the opposite corner. They paid no attention to her.

They waited until she waved to the bus driver to stop. Then they dropped their cigarets and walked away. She knew they would report to Castro that she had left Kirktown.

Penny stopped briefly at the Kirk estate. She luxuriated in a cool shower, dressed, and guided the roadster to a parking space in front of the building which housed the offices of Johnathan and Jones, architects.

Charlie Jones welcomed her delightedly. He cleared a space for her to sit down. Then he swamped her with drawings and plans and blueprints.

"When can you start actual construction?" Penny asked.

"Tomorrow," he said.

"Go ahead," Penny ordered. "Get started."

"We're all set to go," Charlie Jones told her. "Tomorrow morning the steam shovels will be on the job. Boy, have I got work to do. I'll telephone the contractors immediately."

"I'd better get out of here before I'm run down," Penny laughed. "You really move when you get going."

"You bet," he answered. "We've been waiting for your signal."

Next, Penny did some shopping. The first speech she had ever made from a public platform was scheduled for Friday night. She needed an appropriate dress. And while she was at it, she might as well have a new hat, she decided.

After that, and lunch, she left better. An inviting theater offered relaxation. She enjoyed herself completely. To keep Castro guessing, she decided to spend the night at the estate. She would have a surprise in store for him Friday night.

COMMERCIAL INDUSTRIAL and BUILDING DIGEST

LOCAL FIRM HELPS MOTORISTS DRIVE SAFELY; EXPERT BRAKE, ADVICE

Mulhern Owner Of Monroe Spring And Brake Service

High Spots In Drums Or Weak Springs Can Wear Out Tires And Cause Accidents

Mr. B. L. Mulhern has had 22 years' experience in the automotive field and has been operating the Monroe Brake & Spring Service for a number of years. This firm is the authorized wholesale dealer for Grizzly brake lining service. A large stock of brake lining is carried at all times to fit any type car, truck or trailer. One of the largest stocks of springs and parts for springs to fit all types cars or trucks are also carried. Hydraulic brake parts, shock absorbers and many other items needed to make your car or truck operate more smoothly and economically are in stock. It has often been heard that if it is under the chassis or fenders, Mr. Mulhern has it.

One of the finest and most accurate brake drum grinder to be found in north Louisiana can be seen in operation at this well-equipped shop. Mr. Mulhern states that high spots must be ground down to assure better service and longer wear for your tires. Drums can be ground and replaced on your car in a couple of hours. Spring parts can also be replaced immediately. Mr. Muihern's expert workmanship is helping in the present world-wide drive to conserve materials and to "keep 'em rolling." The public is invited to drive in and have their springs and brake drums checked. Lots of people buy new springs when it is not necessary. Most of the time springs can be repaired for half the cost of new ones. Weak springs can cause your car to get out of line, which in turn wear tires more rapidly. Mr. Mulhern gives expert advice about how to care for your car to make it last for the duration.

SCOTT TRUCK & TRACTOR URGES REPAIR WORK NOW

Mr. Scott urges all farmers in north Louisiana to have their tractors and farm implements repaired now. Parts can be replaced now, but no promises will be made for the future. Vital parts that are necessary to keep farm implements operating are becoming scarce.

The manufacture of all farm implements are being cut sharply. The materials are now being used for tanks, ships and other implements of war.

The farmers are advised not to wait to have their machinery repaired, because later it may take months to obtain a new part.

BETTER CARE FARM MACHINERY URGED

With the International Harvester Company's huge plants now converted from peacetime to war production, the Scott Truck and Tractor Company, 720 DeSiard, local distributor for Farmall tractors and International Harvester trucks, is no longer enabled to meet the demands of their customers for new tractors and trucks.

However, T. H. Scott, head of the firm, is effectively serving the cause of conservation by following out the International Harvester Company's program of preaching better care of the implements farmers now own.

Recently the harvester company carried a full-page advertisement with several nationally read magazines reproducing a timely editorial under the title of "Let's Face the Facts With Common Sense."

The editorial stressed the fact that farmers should now face the problem of curtailed tractor and truck production by giving their present machinery better care. Wise and skillful repairing, done at the first symptoms of breakdown; and better housing of implements and proper lubrications of all moving parts. Mr. Scott points out that the war demands for greater agricultural production is placing a larger responsibility on the farmer. His machinery must not only last longer but must be operated efficiently a greater numbers of hours weekly.

At the Scott Truck and Tractor Company, Mr. Scott assures his customers that his parts department is amply stocked at the present. His service department is better equipped and better manned than ever before and he urges farmers not to wait until their equipment is completely knocked out before having it serviced. "A stitch in time saves nine" is an old maxim that applies to farm machinery just as much as to anything else.

PRIZES FOR PESTS

BURLINGTON, Kas.—(AP)—The Coffey County Fair is paying a bounty this year on pests that bother farmers.

The collections will be assembled and judged and prizes awarded under rules similar to those in other departments of the fair with grasshoppers, snakes, etc., on exhibition.

FRANK PARRINO WINS BLUE RIBBON AWARD

A special Blue Ribbon award was the honor bestowed upon Mr. Frank Parrino proprietor of No-D-Lay Shoe Shop. Every shoe repair man in the United States competed for the 1942 National Silver Cup competition.

This is not the only time that Mr. Parrino has had the honor of winning prizes for his work. In 1938 he was awarded a cup in the national championship contest of shoe repairmen.

Again in 1940 he received national recognition by winning the blue ribbon for outstanding workmanship while in Vicksburg, Miss.

Because of the shortage of shoes, Mr. Parrino says the shoe repair business is going to be more and more important. People will have to have their shoes repaired instead of buying new ones, repaired not just once but over and over. But unless the repair job is done right the first time, there may be no second time, he contends.

'Look at Stitches'

"Look at the stitches on the sole of your shoe," Mr. Parrino said. "If it has been half-soled, there should be just one row of stitches in the same old holes. Lots of times repair shops just leave the old stitches in and make a new row—that weakens the leather.

"If there are tacks in the shank of the shoe (at the front of the heel in the instep) then it's an old-fashioned job. The modern way is to vulcanize the sole to the top of the shoe. That makes it water-tight.

"When I half-sole a shoe, you can hardly tell that it isn't a new shoe."

RAIN DID THE JOB

CEDAR CITY, Mo.—(AP)—Cedar City folk were worrying about the job of cleaning up the debris left by a recent flood. Along came a 2½-inch rain and took care of the job.

EVERY TRUCK IN U. S. MUST CARRY EMBLEM

Trucks face a tough job. It is vital to the very life of the nation that every truck last longer and work harder—to the last possible mile. That is why the United States government, through the office of defense transportation, founded the "U. S. Truck Conservation Corps." The plan calls for regular inspection of every truck, to prevent costly breakdowns before they happen—early replacement of worn parts—careful driving to save wear and add many miles to your precious tires.

The success of this program depends on "official station" service. It depends on the loyal co-operation of every truck owner, driver, service station and mechanic. That is why our government has asked you all to sign a pledge . . . a pledge that is your solemn promise to keep America's trucks in tip-top shape for the duration.

A pledge to keep America's trucks rolling longer . . . for victory . . . and for America.

Pledge To Keep 'Em Rolling Longer

"Realizing that motor trucks are vital to our national transportation welfare, that the existing supply is all but irreplaceable, and that every extra mile each truck can be made to serve in safety is a direct help to the war effort. . . . I hereby pledge that I will regard it as my patriotic duty to do all in my power to prolong the life of any truck in my ownership or care.

"I will cooperate in a preventive maintenance program.

"I will do my part to see that frequent mechanical inspections are made and that all necessary adjustments and minor repairs are promptly taken care of to prevent major repairs, with consequent waste of parts and materials.

"I will see that my truck is driven properly to avoid accidental damage, excessive tire wear and gasoline waste.

"Signed .....

Truck drivers are urged to go to their nearest "offical station" and sign the pledge to do their part for defense and conservation.

More than 1,500 different makes of cars have been manufactured in the United States since the birth of the first automobile.

'Beyond The Blue Horizon' Opens At Paramount Today

The Jackass Mail goes through as Wallace Beery, Darryl Hickman and Marjorie Main stay on the alert against gold thieves in the comedy drama of the old west, "Jackass Mail," playing Friday and Saturday at the Paramount theater.

Rosalind Russell hires Fred MacMurray to "Take a Letter, Darling," the feature playing Tuesday through Thursday at the Paramount theater. From nine to five Roz has all the ideas but after hours, Fred has some ideas of his own. In the supporting cast are Robert Benchley, Constance Moore and Cecil Kellaway.

Those roughneck rascals are at it again in "Smart Alecks," playing Saturday only at the Capitol theater. Yes, it's the East Side Kids starring Leo Gorcey, Bobby Jordan, Huntz Hall and Gabriel Dell picking on a big shot gangster and you can guess who will win.

Lamour Tops Cast Of New Tropical Hit

Richard Denning, Jack Haley Head Supporting Cast Of New Film

FRESH from her thumping triumph in "The Fleet's In," Dorothy Lamour comes back to the screen in a type of role which has made her famous and which has never failed to entertain us—a jungle film, with Dotty clad in a sarong.

The sarong-queen this time stars in Paramount's Technicolor adventure romance, "Beyond the Blue Horizon," which romps into the Paramount theater beginning today, with Richard Denning, Jack Haley, Patricia Morison, Walter Abel, Helen Gilbert and Elizabeth Patterson in the featured cast.

Last time Dotty donned a sarong was for "Aloma of the South Seas." "Beyond the Blue Horizon" marks the sixth time Dotty has slipped into a sarong for one of those island or jungle films. Reports are that "Beyond the Blue Horizon," packs more entertainment than any of the previous Lamour hits.

"A Full Moon and an Empty Heart," which Dotty sings in the new film, has already reached hit parade status. The pretty star is one of the best song-promoters of the screen.

Presaging romance, thrills and comedy, "Beyond the Blue Horizon" presents Dotty as an heiress to a fortune, who is brought to the states from the jungle, where she lived most of her life with a tiger and a chimpanzee as pets. Her parents were killed by a wild elephant.

Her right to the fortune is disputed, and her statement that she has a tiger which swims is challenged by Richard Denning, a jungle-bred lion-wrestler in a circus. Skepticism arises concerning whether Dotty was ever in a jungle. To prove the validity of her claim to the fortune, it is necessary for her to return to the jungle to recover certain lost papers to establish her identity. Denning, Haley, a circus press agent, Walter Abel and Helen Gilbert accompany her. The papers, of course, are found after many perils, not the least of which is that man-killing elephant. Naturally there are romantic and comedy interludes.

Denning is Dotty's new jungle sweetheart. He's tall, muscular, blonde and handsome and is said to be perfect for the role.

"Beyond the Blue Horizon" seems to have the elements for sure-fire screen entertainment.

STRANGE SMELL INVADES BRONX

Laymen And Experts Unable To Find Source Of Polluting Stench

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—For the second time within a month, a strange stench pollutes the air in the Bronx and again nauseated citizens are clamoring for something to be done about it.

Something is being done but without result, for no one—expert or layman—has found the source of the smell. And many have tried.

Yesterday, for instance, Dr. John Oberwager, health department sanitation chief, postponed his vacation to go hunting for the odor. He didn't find it but right after he left, the wind changed, and there was the smell back again. He and his staff are going back today.

The afflicted area is in Clason point, a section of about 600 one-family houses and a couple of apartment buildings in the southeast Bronx. Citizens say the odor is indescribable, a combination of rotten eggs and a mud flat at low tide.

It disturbs sleep, creates nausea, discolors paint, tarnishes metals.

Willard Beach, one of the section's property owners, declared the odor was far more sickening than in the first visitation in July. Beach said the fumes had penetrated his refrigerator—and the enamel turned black.

"We're organizing a committee of property owners here at the point," asserted Beach, "and we intend to march on city hall—to demand that something be done."

To Mayor F. L. La Guardia, Beach sent this telegram:

"Another attack of hydrogen sulphate gas of greater intensity and covering greater area of Clason point section now in progress. Paint in homes turning black. Residents nauseated. Odor unbearable. Immediate action imperative."

The mayor asked experts from the bureau of mines in Washington to investigate.

There is one ray of sunshine—Beach said the smell is so offensive that it has chased away the mosquitoes.

DR. SNELLING LEAVES FOR ARMY POST TODAY

Dr. John G. Snelling, Jr., for the past 12 years a member of Graves and Snelling clinic, will leave here tonight for New Orleans, where he will assume duties as major in the United States army at the LaGarde hospital. Assignment to the New Orleans hospital is only temporary, Dr. Snelling said. He will report for duty Tuesday.

Dr. Snelling is president of the Ouachita Parish Medical society and counsellor for the Fifth district of the Louisiana State Medical society.

Dr. Snelling is married and has two children. He said Mrs. Snelling and the children would remain here temporarily.

In starting your car you may save 50 per cent in gasoline by not exceeding seven miles an hour in low and 15 miles an hour in second gear.

The queen of the tropics, Dorothy Lamour, finds a new jungle mate, Richard Denning, in her latest picture, "Beyond the Blue Horizon," playing today and Monday at the Paramount theater. It's a picture of thrills made more thrilling in technicolor with Jack Haley, Patricia Morison and Walter Abel in the supporting cast.

Don Ameche and Lynn Bari took Henry Fonda to town just for the ride but you'll be wondering who's riding who in "The Magnificent Dope," playing Tuesday only at the Capitol theater, with Edward Everett Horton and George Barbier in the supporting cast.

TWO-DOLLAR BILL RETURNS TO FAVOR

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The two-dollar bill, to which long standing superstition attached the stigma of unlucky, has come into its own.

In fact, the demand so far exceeded the supply in San Diego that an urgent appeal for more was made to the federal reserve bank at Los Angeles.

The reason: Only $2 bills and coins are exempt from a treasury department edict, effective yesterday, curtailing the carrying of currency across the United States-Mexican border.

W. B. George, United States customs collector, said business and civic leaders in Tijuana, Mexico, near the California border, sought an extension of the government's order to allow time to adjust and reorganize business affairs and exchange methods.

The restrictions were described as a move "to prevent use being made of Mexico as a place in which Axis agents may dispose of dollar currency looted abroad."

Banks and stores reported increasing requests for silver.

The treasury said two dollar bills were exempted because it believes few of them have fallen into Axis hands and also bcause many of the bills are used in cross the border business.

GOODBY UMBRELLAS

LONDON—(AP)—The Englishman and his ubiquitous umbrella may soon be parted. In future any raw materials umbrella makers get will be used only for repairs.

COMRADES REUNITED

FRESNO, Calif.—(AP)—The doorbell rang at the home of Master Sergeant Otto M. Rector at Hammer Field, and outside stood Major D. G. Herring, who was making his first inspection tour of the range. They stared, shook hands and went into a long confab. Both had served under Captain Eddie Rickenbacker in France, had not seen each other since the Armistice.

Every moment is a rare adventure in "The Talk of the Town," starring Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman, the feature appearing as the midnight show next Saturday at the Paramount theater.

The gal who'll live forever in song, plus the girl who'll step out of the tunes into your heart is Rita Hayworth in "My Gal Sal," playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater. America's No. 1 redhead is set to music in this gay technicolor picture with Victor Mature, James Gleason, Phil Silvers and Walter Catlett as the featured players.

The laugh filled fable of an R. A. F. man, a lovely saboteur and a Hitlerite heel appears at the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday in the picture, "The Wife Takes a Flyer," starring Joan Bennett and Franchot Tone with Allyn Joslyn and Roger Clark.

'My Gal Sal' Is Playing At Capitol

Rita Hayworth Heads Cast Of Musical Comedy Hit Opening Today

"INSPIRATION" — that's what America needs today! And that's just what America is getting in the person of the "No. 1 Red-Head," Rita Hayworth, who is all set to inspire the fans when she makes her appearance in 20th Century-Fox's Technicolor extravaganza, "My Gal Sal" at the Capitol theater today.

Co-starred with Victor Mature, John Sutton and Carole Landis in an up-to-the-minute treatment of a naughty nineties story, the titian-haired Rita purveys song, dance and beauty which makes screen entertainment with a smash!

"My Gal Sal" tells the story of Paul Dresser who was a famous composer, and brother of author Theodore Dreiser. Dresser concocted hundreds of tunes which are still setting modern feet a-tapping, among which are "My Gal Sal," "On The Banks Of The Wabash," "Mr. Volunteer,"—and they're all in the feature surrounded by a series of lavish production numbers to delight the eyes of the fans.

Director Irving Cummings has whipped the laughter, song, and story into what previewers have hailed as "a grand piece of entertainment." Producer Robert Bassler has spared nothing to make it a top production.

The large cast includes such favorites as James Gleason, Phil Silvers, Walter Catlett, Mona Maris and Frank Orth.

The producers have kept their weather eyes peeled on the Hit Parade by fashioning several additional hitting production numbers for the Technicolor opus.

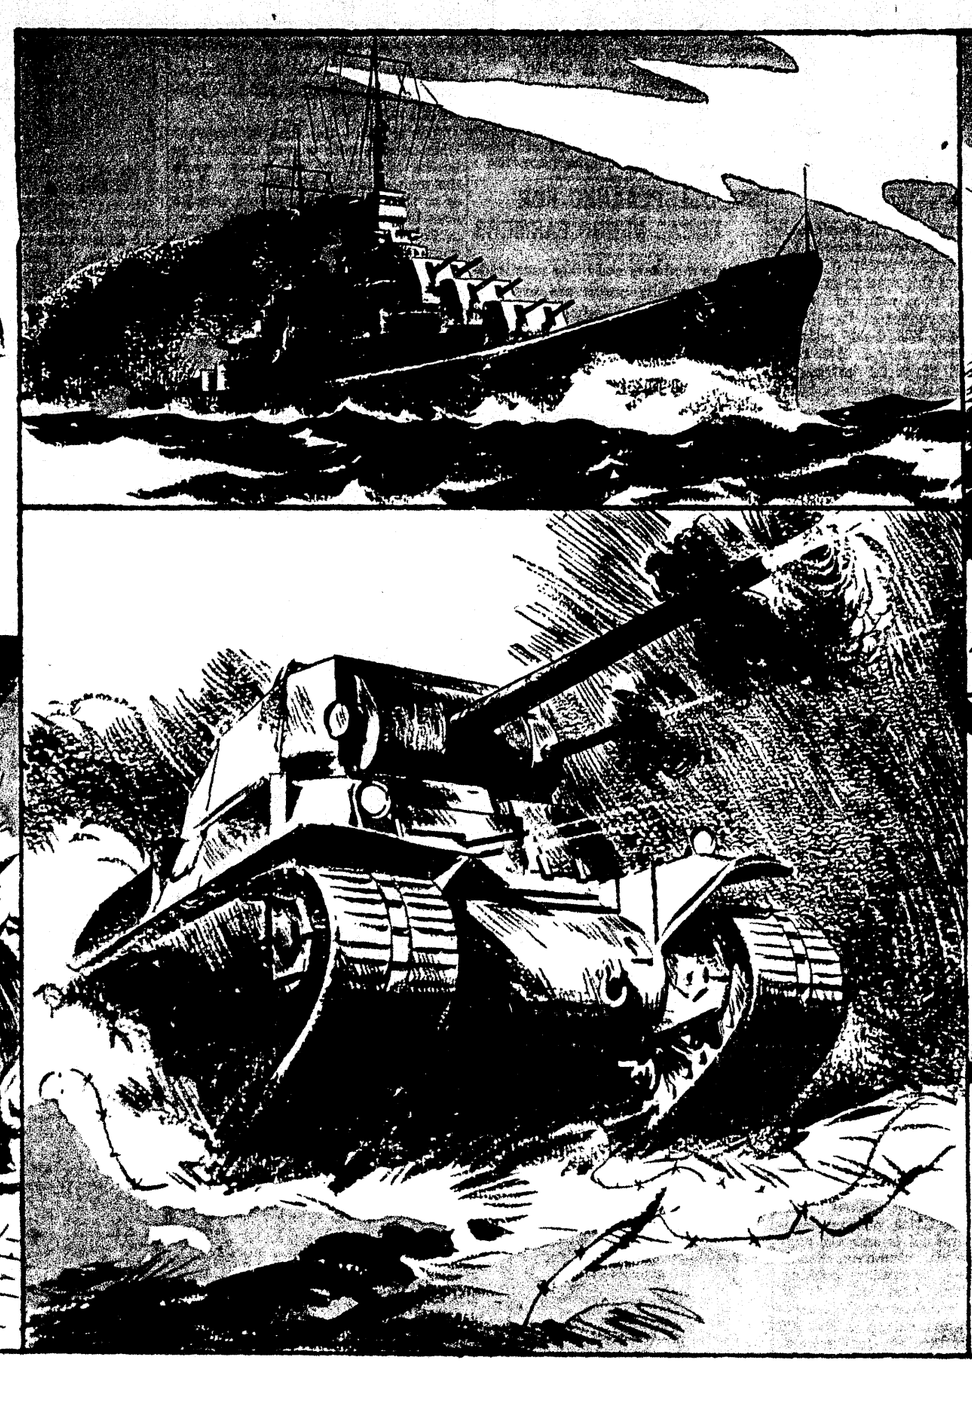
Here's what he's doing...



And here's what you can do to help him!

When his basic training's over and he's sent to fight the hard-hitting Nazis and Japs, you want him to have the finest fighting equipment a man ever had—and plenty of it.

You—yes, you—can help him get it..... by putting every dime and dollar you can into War Savings Bonds—at least 10 percent of your pay every pay day!

So take a look around. You could save more, couldn't you—for him—if you took the bus to work or shop instead of the car?—if you didn't go for a drive on Sundays?—if you didn't buy that "extra something"?—if you cut some useless spending here and some more there. Sure you could.

And just think! Those extra dimes and dollars put into War Savings Bonds might end the war sooner, bring him home safe and sound a day, a week, a month sooner than if you didn't save those dimes and dollars.

When you think of it that way, it makes you want to go out right now, doesn't it, and bring home the biggest Bond they've got at the bank or at the Post Office? Well, why not? There's nothing you could do that would help your boy more!

CHESS TOURNEY IS PLANNED HERE

Will Be Conducted August 23 At Home Of E. K. Flournoy

Announcement has been made that a chess tournament, open to all players who live in northeast Louisiana, will begin at 1 p.m., August 23, at the home of E. K. Flournoy, 100 Hudson lane.

In order that proper arrangements may be made for accommodating the players, all those who wish to participate should turn in their names before the date of the tournament. Those desiring to enter may communicate with W. G. Jasper, 806 North Fifth street, West Monroe, phone 5491.

Decision as to the style of play to be adopted will be made after the players arrive at Mr. Flournoy's home. Three styles are under consideration, one being straight elimination, another round robin and the third elimination by teams, with the top man in each team entering a round-robin play-off.

It is believed there are more good chess players in Monroe and vicinity now than at any time within the last 10 or 15 years, as a large number of young players have been interested in the game recently and some of them are expected to furnish extremely strong competion for the older players.

This will be the first chess tournament here in a number of years, although several checker tournaments have been held. The last chess tournament was won by Mr. Flournoy, who did not lose a game.

LIEUTENANTS THESE

John Smith

W. H. Smith

Two brothers, Lieutenant John Smith and Lieutenant W. H. Smith, only sons of Mrs. H. T. Peede of Bastrop (above) are now commissioned. The first named graduated from the new army air force administration officer school, Miami Beach, Fla. He was one of the first from this area to graduate there with a class of 2,000 on August 5. He has just been assigned to Salt Lake City where he will be in the administrative department of the United States air service. His brother is stationed in Milwaukee, Wis., being assigned to transport duty. He received his wings and commission July 3, 1942, from the advanced flying school. He received basic and advanced training in Mississippi. He is quite happy in that he is rooming with a Louisiana boy—one from Alexandria.

Award 100 Merit Badges To Boy Scout Troop No. 1

New Record Set At Court Of Honor Conducted On Friday Night

Boy Scouts of troop No. 1 have made their vacation time a profitable scouting time, if more than 100 awards issued Friday night to the members of this active group can be regarded as a sign of activities. This troup began to function back in 1911, although its original charter from the National Boy Scout council was not issued until 1920. Last May this troop received its 21st annual charter as pioneer group here.

This group is sponsored by the Knights of Columbus council No. 1,337, and is known as the "Catholic" troop, although members are of varied religious beliefs. J. W. Webster, Sr., is the scoutmaster in charge, assisted by J. F. Browne.

This troop has always been well represented in all scouting activities and at all courts of honor, but this group seems to have taken the spotlight at the court of honor held on Friday night in Central Grammar school auditorium.

Scouting officials state that this was the first time in the history of the local council that 100 merit badge awards have been given at one time to a single troop and this fact is regarded as a signal honor to sponsors, leaders and members of this troop as well as to the local council.

In addition to the 100 merit badge awards, two scouts were advanced to the rank of "Star"; four to the first class rank; three to the second class rank and two tenderfoot badges were awarded.

These honors, all earned since June 13, are listed as follows:

Charles Amman, cooking, pioneering, salesmanship. E. D. Cascio, advanced to second class, first aid. John Collier, advanced to first class, cooking, first aid, gardening, handicraft, physical development, public health, safety, aviation. Allen Green, advanced to first class, painting, handicraft, safety, bookbinding.

Frankie Joseph, advanced to first class, cooking, life-saving, leather craft, pioneering, swimming, wood carving. Joe Marsala, advanced to "Star," leatherwork, leathercraft, reading, salesmanship, physical development, personal health, pathfinding, first aid, cooking, life saving, swimming, also third year service star, completing three years of scouting, also 25-hour civic service bar.

John Browne, advanced to life rank, cooking, leathercraft, leatherwork, life saving, pathfinding, personal health, physical development, pioneering, public health, reading, salesmanship, swimming. S. J. Daigle, advanced to Star, reading, swimming, public health. Carey Hodges, advanced to first class, wood carving, salesmanship, animal industry, farm layout and building arrangement, leatherwork, leathercraft, handicraft, reading, public health, civics, plumbing, pathfinding, first aid to animals, first aid.

Gladden Norris, advanced to second class, first aid, handicraft. Peck Alpha, advanced to second class. Ulysses Rivoire, cooking, leatherwork, leathercraft, public health, personal health, pioneering, salesmanship, pathfinding, reading. Calvin Young, advanced to life rank, salesmanship, animal industry, pathfinding, civics, poultry keeping, reading, first aid to animals, physical development, plumbing, handicraft, lifesaving, swimming, cooking.

James Watkins, first aid. J. W. Webster, Jr., wood-carving, pioneering, civics, animal industry, first aid to animals, leathercraft, leatherwork, reading, pathfinding, cooking, life saving, salesmanship. Marvin Howse, Richard M. Troy, Jr., tenderfoot badge.

Another feature of the ceremony was the awarding of the Gold Palms to Eagle Scout Duncan Smith and the Bronze Palms to Eagle Scout John Kelso, both of troop No. 31. Several awards advancing scouts of the various troops to the ranks of life, star, first class, as well as a large number of merit badges to scouts that represented almost every troop of the central district.

Represented at the court of honor were the following troops, Nos. 1, 28, 30, 31, 32, 33 and 34. In all a total of fully 250 awards were given.

The presentation of second-class was by A. H. Jones; first-class by P. S. Mulhearn; merit badges by Lawrence Pettit; star rank by Louis Mathis; life rank by A. B. Clarkson; presentation of palms by Olan Black; of civic service awards by John Scott; troop No. 1 awards, by A. B. Clarkson.

John Scott introduced Lieutenant George Eckel of the A. A. F. navigation school, who spoke briefly.

The scout oath was led by W. L. Dean, Jr.

It was announced by Mr. Clarkson that there will be a court of honor held every three months hereafter.

SCHOOL PLANNED FOR LOCAL NEGRO FARMERS

Negro ministers and other race leaders in Ouachita parish are urged to attend the all-day school called to discuss the Louisiana Food for Freedom program and the necessity for cooperation among negro farmers and their families.

A. G. Facen, with the assistance of the parish and home demonstration agents is in charge of the arrangements. The school will be held on August 25 at 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Jordan-Johnson 4-club camp at Calhoun.

Among the speakers at the all-day session will be representatives of the agricultural extension service state office and national and state representatives of the AAA. Prominent negro ministers and other race leaders will also take part.

The Negro Self Help League and 4-H clubs of the parish will provide barbecued chicken for lunch free.

CROP INSURANCE AIDS FARMERS

Offered For First Time Last Fall, Many Have Been Thus Secured

Ouachita parish farmers who have a fine stand of cotton and prospects of a good yield are feeling pretty good these days; but some of those who don't have any stand at all and no prospects of any kind of yield are feeling all right, too.

This is about the time of the year when a man with a good cotton crop begins to add up his money while the man who lost his crop to a flood or to the boll weevil wonders why he ever took up farming. But this year, as Parish Triple A Officer I. E. Lucas points out, cotton crop insurance has made a difference.

Even in the best of crop years, Mr. Lucas said, hundreds of farmers are hard hit by cotton crop failures due to unusually heavy weevil infestation in their section, flood, storms, or other calamities. But the farmer who took out crop insurance last fall can view the future calmly, come boll weevil, come flood, come storm. Crop insurance protects the cotton farmer against loss from all such unavoidable hazards as these, and against war damage as well.

Cotton crop insurance was offered for the first time last fall. Thousands of Louisiana farmers took out policies, and a number of claims for total losses resulting from flood or similar mishaps are now being considered. Partial losses will be paid off at the end of the season. Cotton crop insurance on the 1943 crop will be available next year immediately prior to planting time.

GETS FURLOUGH

Robert Langston (above) who attended Ouachita parish school and who enlisted two months ago, has been home on a furlough, visiting his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Garlock. He will be assigned to a course in radio training at a government school in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

In the Navy you get ahead fast. Your first promotion comes in approximately two months upon completion of recruit training, and it carries an increase in pay. Some Navy men earn as much as $138 a month by the end of their first enlistment. And your pay is all yours. Your food, clothing, shelter, medical and dental care are free.

Read at the right what other men say about their life in the Navy. Then go to the nearest Recruiting Station. Have a friendly talk with the officer in charge. And ask him for a copy of the exciting new book, "MEN MAKE THE NAVY." It will give you all the facts why men of action pick the Navy. Don't delay. Act now.

Look what the Navy offers you
1. A chance to serve your country.
2. Clean, healthy life.
3. Good food—and plenty of it.
4. Good pay—up to $138 a month.
5. Free clothing—$133 worth.
6. Free medical and dental care.
7. Travel...adventure...thrills.
8. Opportunity to be an Officer.
9. Training in nearly 50 trades.
10. Future success in civil life.

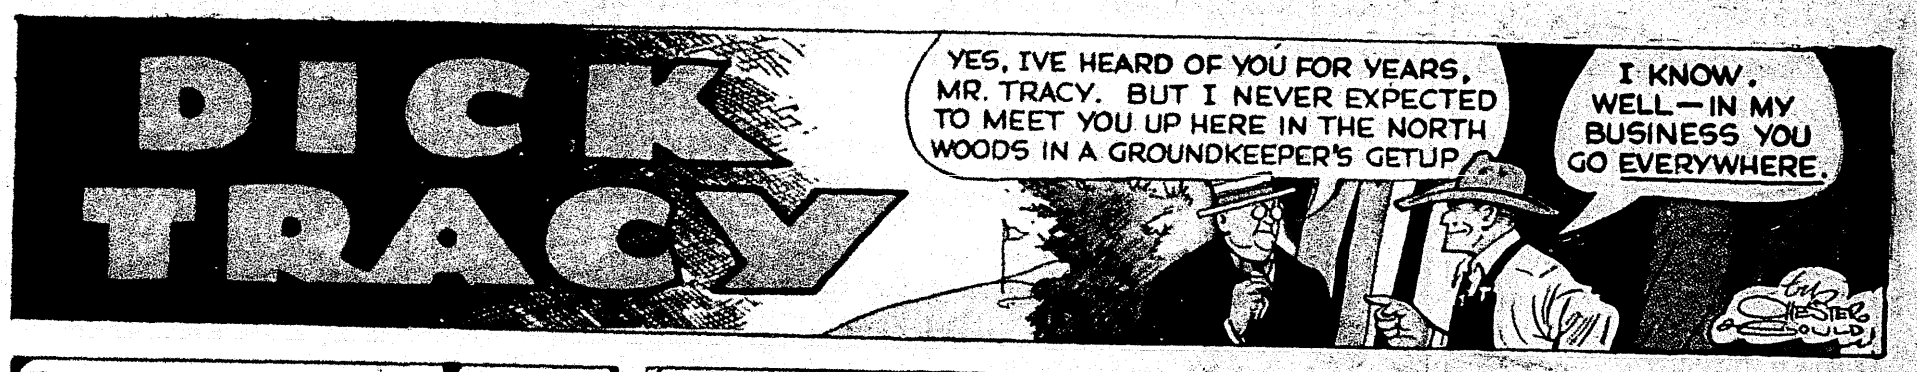
DICK TRACY



YES, IVE HEARD OF YOU FOR YEARS, MR. TRACY. BUT I NEVER EXPECTED TO MEET YOU UP HERE IN THE NORTH WOODS IN A GROUNDKEEPER'S GETUP.
I KNOW. WELL—IN MY BUSINESS YOU GO EVERYWHERE.
CHESTER GOULD
THIS MAN, LILLY, IS TRYING TO GYP YOU WITH THIS "HOT SULPHUR SPRINGS" GAG AND I'M GOING TO PROVE IT TO YOU.
I CAN'T BELIEVE IT—
I WENT BACK TO THE CITY AND RETURNED WITH FIFTY THOUSAND IN CASH. WE WERE TO CLOSE THE DEAL TODAY.
I TRIED TO INTERCEPT YOU WHEN YOU WERE HERE BEFORE, BUT FAILED. COME THIS WAY.
AND ANOTHER THING, FRIZZLETOP, I DON'T THINK IT LOOKS NICE FOR MY CASHIER TO BE RUNNING AROUND WITH A CADDY AND THE YARD MAN.
WH— WHAT DO YOU MEAN?
ESPECIALLY WHEN THE YARD MAN IS DETECTIVE DICK TRACY.
HOW DID YOU KNOW? —ER— I MEAN—
YOU SEE, JOE, HERE, WHO RUNS THE PRO SHOP, GOT A GLIMPSE OF THE LABEL IN THE FLATFOOT'S COAT.
GRAB THAT KID!
I KNEW YOU WAS STOOGIN' FOR THE COPPERS ALL THE TIME.
BOSS! DICK TRACY AND MR. CHANCE HAVE JUST GONE TO THE UNDER-GROUND DEN.
YOU SEE, BY TURNING THIS LIMB, THAT SOD-COVERED TRAP-DOOR OPENS AND —LET'S GO DOWN.
SULPHUR! LAMP BLACK! IODINE! ALL MIXED IN A VAT—— THEN AN ELECTRIC PUMP DID THE REST.
NEVER IN MY LIFE—
UH-
OH, HOW DO YOU DO, MR. CHANCE. I SEE YOU'VE RETURNED— AND I'LL JUST BET YOU'VE GOT THE FIFTY GRAND.
THAT'S A GOOD BOY. NOW YOU TWO JUST STAY DOWN HERE AND MAKE YOURSELVES COMFORTABLE - ESPECIALLY MR. TRACY
THAT'S IT. SHOVE THE WHEEL OF THE DRILLING MACHINE RIGHT ON TO THE TRAP DOOR. THEN START THE MOTOR OF THAT LAWN MOWER.
WE'RE GOING TO LET THE BOYS HAVE A LITTLE CARBON MONOXIDE —— WHILE WE BEAT IT FOR THE TALL TIMBER.

WHILE DALE AND ZARKOV SAT, SORROWING, ON A ROCK NEAR THE EDGE OF THE GREAT WHIRLPOOL THAT HAD DRAWN FLASH AND QUEEN DESIRA TO THEIR SUPPOSED DOOM, BRAZOR CAME UPON THEM. WHEN HE LEARNED OF THE FATE OF FLASH AND DESIRA, THE TRAITOR SHATTERED THE ROCK WITH A RAY-BOLT, TOSSING THEM INTO THE WHIRLPOOL, THEREBY DISPOSING OF THE LAST WITNESSES TO HIS TREASON---

THE POWERFUL SUCTION DRAGS DALE AND ZARKOV DOWN THE UNDERGROUND TUNNEL. ZARKOV CLAMPS HIS HAND OVER DALE'S NOSE AND MOUTH TO KEEP HER FROM DROWNING---

THE UPSWEEPING CURRENT ENDS IN A GEYSER, WHICH FLINGS THEM, BATTERED AND BREATHLESS, UPON THE SAME UNDERGROUND LEDGE THAT FLASH AND DESIRA SO RECENTLY LEFT---

"WHAT'S THAT HORRIBLE MONSTER?" WHISPERS DALE.
"IT'S DEAD!" REPLIES ZARKOV, "LOOKS AS IF IT HAD BEEN RAY-GUNNED--- DALE! DO YOU KNOW WHAT THAT MEANS? FLASH MAY HAVE SURVIVED, TOO!"
